ZOOT SUIT WAR MOVES TO NEW COMMUNITIES

Outbreaks Continue in Los Angeles Area; Service Men Barred from More Areas.

(Picture on Page 16)

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, June 10—Service men and zoot-suited juveniles clashed in new pitched battles in outlying districts today, and a young woman was attacked by three girls on a downtown street and badly slashed in an assault which police said may have been an out-growth of the five day warfare.

The woman, Betty Morgan, said she was taking a morning walk and had approached the entrance to the Third street tunnel when three girls, wearing black skirts, emerged and said "Let's get her."

Black skirts often are worn by the "Black Widow" gang of girls who in the past have accompanied their zooter boy friends on their depredations.

"One jumped on my back," said Miss Morgan. "A second tackled me around the legs, and a third struck me. Then the one slashed me with a knife or razor."

Some 125 zooters and other juveniles clashes with approximately 90 service men, mostly sailors and Marines, in outlying Watts early today. Fighting raged more than an hour, police said, and a number of the zoot-suited lads were de-trousered before military police reserves quelled the riot.

Trainmen on interurban cars passing through the Watts area told police their cars were stoned on nearly every trip. No one was reported hurt.

In nearby Azusa a 15-year-old boy, said to have been tossing gasoline flares into a theater, was shot in the leg by a special officer.

In Los Angeles' Boyle Heights a zoot suited mob assembled early today and were dispersed without violence by police armed with riot guns.

Mayor Fletcher Bowron declared in a radio address that local governmental authority has not broken down.

Gov. Earl Warren, from Sacramento, urged law enforcement officers, citizens and service men to join in a movement to quell the fighting in which 500 zooters and service men have been involved and some 150 persons have been injured in the past few days. The majority of the zoot suiters arrested, police records show, have been youths of Mexican descent.

International Aspect

Mayor Bowron said the state department informed him yesterday the attention had been called to the situation by the Mexican embassy in Washington, after the embassy had received a report from the Mexican consul-general here.

The mayor said he replied: "The law is going to be enforced and the peace kept. There is no room for racial discrimination here. We have here unfortunately a bad situation as the result of the formation of acts of youthful gangs, the members of which, probably to the extent of 98 per cent or more, were born right here in Los Angeles."

The council adopted a motion asking the police commission to report on the situation, including a suggestion by one councilman that there should be a city ordinance banning zoot suits.

LAST BATTLE ON ATTU FIERCE

Remaining Japs Killed Selves with Grenades Rather Than Surrender.

By The Associated Press

CORIES LAKE, ATTU, May 30 —(Delayed)—On this bloody Memorial day, which brought annihilation of the last organized enemy resistance on Attu, the mass of surviving Japanese killed themselves with hand grenades rather than surrender.

Surprised yesterday by a desperate enemy counterattack that brought temporary gains, the Americans rallied to rout the Japanese and slaughter them by hundreds. The fighting ended today.

A madly yelling mob of Japanese army and navy personnel and civilians—apparently every man who could be mustered into action in the Attu village sector—rushed American positions above Cories lake. They succeeded in reoccupying positions from which they had been driven days before.

That attack took American forces by surprise. At an advanced command post near here, sleeping soldiers were bayonetted and grenaded in their pup tents and in fox holes. At least one American field gun was turned against our own forces.

A few snipers penetrated even beyond Gen. E. M. Landrum's headquarters, to the west and east.

Their attack stopped, the desperate Japanese died almost to a man. Hundreds were killed by our fire. Some killed themselves.

One last hopeless charge by about 50 of the enemy was made at 5 a. m. today on the command post above Cories lake. But there was no surprise this time. American fire swept through the ranks of the yelling Japanese.

They broke and ran into gullies. There they held their own grenades against their chests after setting off the detonators.

ANTI-STRIKE BILL SCOPE BROADENED

New Measure Might Block Any War Plant Walkout.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 10—An anti-strike bill so broad it might be used to outlaw walkouts in any war industry emerged today as a congressional challenge to labor controversies that interrupt production on the home front.

It's punitive features polished by a joint conference committee, the measure goes today to a house that often has voted restrictions on organized labor only to see them languish and die in the senate.

Whether it will get quick action there or await a possible settlement of the coal wage dispute, at which it primarily is directed, remained to be seen. Also in doubt is President Roosevelt's attitude toward the measure, which in substance would provide:

Authorization for the President to take over mines or plants in which work stoppage has occurred or is threatened, outlawing strikes or lockouts in such cases.

Establishment of the war labor board as a statutory agency with subpoena powers to settle disputes in all war industries.

Requirements of notice to the secretary of labor, WLB and national labor relations board of a labor dispute, with a provision that no strike can be called until 30 days have elapsed and a majority has voted for that action on a secret ballot conducted by the NLRB.

Pantelleria Under Attack Eighteenth Successive Day

Sicily Suffers New Raids and Commando Attack Tests Defenses of Italian Islands in Mediterranean.

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, June 10—Allied air forces, steadily whittling away at axis resistance on the Mediterranean outposts, have executed new air assaults on bomb-scarred Pantelleria and Sicily in connection with a scouting raid by British commandos against Lampedusa, it was announced today.

Striking in darkness from the sea Monday night, the commandos tested the defenses of Lampedusa, tiny Italian prison isle 80 miles south of the invasion stepping stone of Pantelleria, and retired with light casualties after completing their mission, a headquarters communique said.

(A British naval communique issued yesterday at Malta said light surface forces had carried out a coast reconnaissance of the island Sunday night. London sources, although unable to reconcile the time difference, were inclined to believe the two announcements referred to a single amphibious operation.)

Two field guns and a number of machineguns were said to have engaged the commando patrol Monday night. The landing party returned to British vessels off shore, all of which escaped damage.

Island Blasted 18th Day

Allied air forces blasted Pantelleria yesterday for the 18th successive day, and a Cairo announcement said American heavy bombers ranged across the Mediterranean to attack air fields at two points on Sicily, Gerbini and Catania.

Twelve enemy planes were reported shot down on the Pantelleria raids and at least three by the American fliers from Middle East bases. One allied plane was lost over Pantelleria.

The strength of the Pantelleria assault was not disclosed, but it underscored the allied determination, announced in a special communique yesterday, to blast this Italian outpost "until it collapses."

(The Italians, who yesterday ignored an allied demand for surrender of Pantelleria, declared today from the Rome radio: "As each hour goes by we await the enemy at Pantelleria. We are ready and waiting.")

From the Middle East air bases, RAF long-range fighters again swept across to the Aegean seawhere they sank two sailing vessels, left another sinking, and a fourth on its side badly damaged. Three smaller vessels were attacked.

Battleship Damaged

A final interpretation of reconnaissance photographs taken over the La Spezia naval base said decks of one of Italy's Littorio class battleships apparently were damaged by the Flying Fortress attack there Saturday.

Identification marks on the deck had disappeared.

A dispatch from the Fortress base Saturday night said the 35,000-ton battleships Littorio, Vittorio Veneto and Roma had been damaged by hits and near misses of armor-piercing bombs. (Near misses do their work below the waterline.)

(Fifty Liberators made up the American formations from the Middle East command which struck by daylight at the two Sicilian airdromes, it was announced in Cairo.)

Col. John R. (Killer) Kane of Shreveport, La., the leader, said dispersal areas at both Gerbini and Catania were churned by the bursts of more than 250,000 pounds of demolition, fragmentation and incendiary bombs.

Buildings Hit

Hangars and administration buildings received direct hits, upward of two dozen enemy aircraft were blasted to wreckage on the ground and oil installations and storage tanks were destroyed, the crewmen said.

Flying in two waves, the Liberators encountered about 25 axis fighters, both Messerschmitt 109s and Macchi 202s. Two Messerschmitts and one Macchi were shot down and others probably were destroyed.

Clearly showing the importance axis air chiefs attach to Pantelleria, the crews of both tactical and strategic air forces of Lieut. Gen. Carl A. Spaatz' northwest African command reported increased fighter opposition.

Despite the increase in the number of axis fighters, their defense was no more effective than before, it was declared. American bombers and fighters just defied them.

LAND ATTACK NEWS AWAITED BY LONDONERS

British Hold to Belief Momentous Operations Are Imminent.

By The Associated Press

Shattering new assaults on Italy's "Gibraltar" at Pantelleria and a British commando attack on Lampedusa island were announced by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters today, while in London the belief persisted that momentous operations were imminent.

"Official news of landing expected this morning," said Lord Beaverbrook's London Daily Express, headlining the siege of Pantelleria.

The volcanic little island, athwart the trans-Mediterranean invasion route to Sicily and the Italian mainland, underwent its 18th successive day of aerial attack yesterday after rejecting an allied ultimatum for unconditional surrender.

At the same time, American heavy bombers from the Middle East kept up the pounding of Italy's Sicilian stronghold, blasting the airdrome at Gerbini and the town of Catania, and RAF planes swept over the Aegean sea to strafe axis ships off Nazi-occupied Greece.

Italian headquarters listed 41 killed and 91 injured in an attack by multi-engined bombers at Catania.

War of Nerves Action

Confirming previous axis reports, allied headquarters announced that British commandos raided Lampedusa island, 80 miles south of Pantelleria, on Monday night, apparently as part of the "war of nerves" against invasion-worried Italy.

A communique said the commandos encountered fire from two field guns and machineguns on the beach in Monday's attack, but suffered few casualties and withdrew after accomplishing their mission.

Other developments at-a-glance:

Russia—Moscow stresses violent air battles as prelude to 1943 summer campaign; Red armies beat off German attacks in two sectors, destroy two German infantry companies on Leningrad front.

Unrest—Yugoslav patriots battle tank-led axis troops in Montenegrin mountains.

Air War—RAF lists 874 planes lost in first five months of great allied aerial offensive against Europe, 252 lost in May.

Southwest Pacific — Australia's Prime Minister Curtin says hour near for allied drive against Japanese.

Burma—RAF planes bomb Japanese on upper Chindwin river; land front quiet.

Under orders from Rome, Pantelleria's bomb-dazed garrison continued to hold out in the island's volcanic hills, and an Italian broadcast, obviously seeking to bolster morale on the Italian home front, said the defenders were "proudly accepting all privations and sacrifices."

Upon the garrison's refusal to surrender, allied planes again dropped a great weight of explosives on the island yesterday, underlining Gen. Eisenhower's warning that the Italians could expect only "bombing, bombardment and blockade" until they run up the white flag.

Broadcaster Is Ready

From the safety of unbombed Rome, the Italian radio boasted: "As each hour goes by, we await the enemy at Pantelleria. We are ready and waiting."

However, it was quite possible that instead of a direct assault, the allied command might have

Blood Donors Give 143 Pints

Officials and Employes of Universal Cooler Corp. Fill Quota First Day; Unit Here Through Friday.

A total of 142 full pints of blood was collected for the Army and Navy when officials and employes of the Universal Cooler Corp. took over the first day's quota of contributors at the Red Cross mobile donor's Marion headquarters in the basement of the Epworth Methodist church.

Today, the unit's second day of the three-day visit to Marion, and tomorrow, professional men, office workers, industrial workers, homemakers and men and women in all occupations will make up the list of donors. While it is expected that all persons who registered for donations today will report, there still is a need for more donors for Friday, a check at the Marion County Red Cross office showed.

Contributors need only give a small portion of their time, those in charge state. The actual process of taking the pint of blood requires only from five to 10 minutes and following a short rest period and a few minutes to consume a light lunch, the person may be on his or her way to business or shopping or whatever business at hand.

Persons who made donations on the unit's previous visits here may do so this time, the staff reported. A person may give five donations a year, if they desire.

Employes of the Universal Cooler Corp. received full pay for the time they spent donating their blood and transportation was provided by the company to and from the church.

Dr. J. R. Barnard of the U. S. Army is in charge of the unit and the staff of six nurses is headed by Miss Virginia Bandet of Columbus.

Luncheon guest at the White House, Sister Kenney, right above, famous Australian nurse who perfected a new treatment for infantile paralysis, meets President Roosevelt for the first time. ## Lewis and One Group of Mine Operators Agree on Wages

Pennsylvania Producers' Offer of $1.30 a Day Increase Accepted by Mine Chief.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 10 — One group of coal operators broke from the deadlocked Appalachian joint wage conference today and made a separate peace with John L. Lewis and his United Mine Workers.

The agreement, between the Central Pennsylvania Producers' association, employing about 65,000 men, and the UMW was reported to call for a wage boost of $1.30 a day for underground travel time. Lewis originally sought $2.

This sudden development tossed more confusion into the already complicated wage negotiations, which were described by both the operators and Lewis as "farcical." Each side accused the other of being too stubborn.

The war labor board reentered the dispute today, holding a public hearing. However, Lewis' miners sent no representatives.

Appalachian operators, except for the central Pennsylvania group, formally reported to the WLB their inability to reach an agreement on the miners' underground travel pay demand and the other unresolved issues referred back to collective bargaining by the board on May 25.

Edward R. Burke, speaking for the operators, reiterated their position that the travel time is included in existing pay rates but said that if the board decided otherwise, the rate fixed for travel time should not be in excess of the 40-cents-an-hour minimum of the wage and hour law.

"The mine workers," said Burke, "have been unyielding in their position that travel time must be paid for at contract rates for productive work. This position is entirely unsupported in law and is opposed to reason. Furthermore, it is the position of the operators that the factor of travel has been taken into consideration in fixing the contract rate; hence, a separate payment for travel time would result in double payment for such time.

"The contract rate for productive work varies according to the work performed. It is not reasonable that one worker should be paid for riding at a rate different than the worker sitting next to him. Even if the law could be construed to require the time spent in this underground travel to be considered as working time, and even if the operators were not already paying for travel time in the present rates, it could not in any event be reasonably contended that it is to be considered as working at loading coal, track laying, or other physical or skilled labor."

The piecemeal pact was affirmed last night by both Lewis and Charles O'Neill, spokesman for northern operators, who in this case was acting only for the Central Pennsylvania group which operates in the Clearfield belt.

Lewis said he was ready to offer the same terms to the other operators, employing 450,000 men. The labor chieftain said he believed they would accept unless "there is political and financial interference with the producers of coal of larger tonnage." He didn't explain this statement.

The separate agreement must be approved by the war labor board, which called a public hearing today on all the phases of the entire row. Lewis, who has ignored the WLB, conceded the settlement was subject to "all properly authorized government agencies." With WLB approval, the pact could form a basis for general peace in the coal fields, dis-

DRAFT OF FATHERS LESS LIKELY SOON

Chances 17 Out of 100 of Call Before First of Year.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 10—A draft-age father's chances of being inducted into the armed forces before next year appeared today to be about 17 out of 100.

The chances next year may be even slower unless heavy casualties require unexpectedly large replacements.

Farmer fathers generally will be deferred for occupational reasons, but the outlook for others sums up like this on the basis of latest war manpower commission-selective service figures:

Drafting of those with children born before last Sept. 15 is not expected to begin before Aug. 15 and even if it starts then it is unlikely to become general and heavy for another month at least.

There are nearly 6,000,000 draft age (non-farm) fathers — only about 4,000,000 of them at most could be expected to be physically acceptable—and the armed services will take in but about 1,500,000 men in all between Aug. 1 and Jan. 1, 1944.

Toward making up this 1,500,000 the services get around 70,000 of the 100,000 becoming 18 years old each month, and should get 350,000 from this source from August on, not counting the youths past 18 who were deferred to the end of the school year.

At least 150,000 more inductees will come from the ranks of single or childless married men, especially as occupational deferments expire for men in that class and the drafting of fathers increases pressure to get men without children out of the shops and into uniform.

With 500,000 or more inductees available from other classes, only 1,000,000 fathers at most will be needed in the ranks, although perhaps twice as many may be called for physical examinations.

INVASION FACES ITALY ON WAR ANNIVERSARY

London Awaits Announcement of Landing on Fortress Island of Pantelleria.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, June 10—The third anniversary of Italy's entrance into the war found her Mediterranean island outposts under heavy prolonged assault today with sections of the London press asserting an allied landing possibly was imminent on Pantelleria and the Italian mainland itself facing a growing threat of invasion.

Unofficial observers and the press here held that the failure of Pantelleria island to capitulate after being rallied upon yesterday to surrender might be the signal for landing parties to storm the tiny rock in the sea, halfway between Tunisia and Sicily.

News Is Expected

"Official news of landing expected this morning" was the headline in today's Daily Express over a survey of the Pantelleria situation.

A special allied communique said "the demand for surrender was made to save the garrison and inhabitants unnecessary suffering" and added that since no reply was received, Pantelleria "will continue to be subjected to bombing, bombardment and blockade."

The sixth naval bombardment in 10 days and heavy plane assaults followed the deadline for an answer to the "unconditional surrender" demand.

The voluble Rome radio in a welter of words during the night, however, indicated the Pantelleria garrison was under orders to resist, declaring allied appeals for its surrender had been scorned by its defenders "proudly accepting all privations and sacrifices."

Sardinia and Sicily also continued to feel the weight of allied air power, and these key islands also figured in the general speculation over possible invasion moves.

Czechs Recall Lidice

Throughout the remainder of Hitler's European fortress there were continued stirrings of resistance as the Czechs recalled today was the first anniversary of the massacre of Lidice, when an entire village was destroyed by the Germans for having harbored the assassins of Reinhardt Heydrich, reichs protector for Bohemia and Moravia.

The Rome radio said the third anniversary of Italy's entry into the war had been chosen for the "annual reshuffle" of the prefects of provincial capitals, including the head men of such heavily bombed cities as Messina, Palermo and Catania on Sicily and Cagliari on Sardinia. The broadcasts insisted it was a normal procedure and in no wise connected with the effects of allied bombing attacks.

Alessandro Pavolini, former Italian minister of education, contributed an anniversary article calculated to cheer up the people in which he said a landing on Italian soil "would be extremely difficult and might be considered impossible."

Transportation Group in Session at Depot

Representatives of railroads serving the Marion area and officers of the transportation section of the Marion Engineer Depot are holding a conference at the depot to discuss transportation problems relating to shipments in and out of the depot. A tour of the depot will conclude the conference late today. Announcement of the conference was made by Col. C. B. Shaffer, commanding officer.

Auto Use Tax Stamps Arrive at Postoffice

A shipment of 12,000 federal auto use tax stamps were received at the Marion postoffice today, Postmaster L. L. Lamborn announced. The stamps will be placed on sale immediately. Drivers must obtain them by July 1. They sell for $5 each.

Denver Police Teach Army MPs To Handle Traffic

Soldiers Train To Keep Things Moving When They Get to Tokyo and Berlin.

By BEN HERSHEY
Associated Press Writer

DENVER, June 10—Husky, intent young soldiers are learning from Denver traffic cops lessons they hope soon to put to practical use in Tokyo or Berlin.

The trainees are military policemen. Their instructors are patrolmen seasoned in the tricks of keeping traffic flowing smoothly.

There was some amazement on the civilian side when these big Army fellows, looking a little formidable in full field uniform, first appeared at busy intersections.

Then came the explanation: Captain James P. Dudley, commander of a military police company, conceived the idea of adding practical experience to the academic traffic training which MPS were receiving at nearby Camp George West. He went to Capt. Frank Campbell, in charge of Denver police traffic, and a program was promptly worked out.

"We can't compliment the Denver police too much for their cooperation," says brisk-talking Captain Dudley.

Watch Police Veterans

Details of MPS were assigned to midtown "observation post" intersections, where they watched veteran patrolmen in action. One of them was Dominic Crow, whose sharp but friendly "take a ride, folks" chatter is an effective check against pesky pedestrians. At some intersections, traffic lights were turned off and the MPS left more or less on their own.

They handled things well from the start. Civilians cooperated quickly. Maybe the full field gear of the MPS helped—they go on duty equipped with revolvers, gas masks, helmets and leggings.

Captain Dudley says the men will be "terribly disappointed" if they don't get an opportunity soon to use their training in Tokyo, Berlin or Rome.

"They're learning how to run traffic in Denver so they will be able to stand at busy street intersections when they get overseas and guide vehicular and pedestrian traffic in any situation," he adds.

Captain Dudley believes Denver is the only place where cooperation of local police is being utilized for giving "systematically all the basic training in traffic direction, pedestrian and motor vehicular."

He said all the 700 men in the military police battalion will receive some of the practical training, in addition to their regular traffic school work.

Some from Ohio

The battalion personnel comes chiefly from Missouri, Iowa, Colorado and Ohio, with some from Indiana, Kansas and Nebraska.

Captain Dudley says the project is the only real way to learn the many problems connected with control of traffic. You can't learn it out of a textbook. You've got to get out there and do it.

"We realize it does discommode the public and the police to some extent, but our boys have been instructed to be polite and courteous and we'll try not to get any of the traffic snarled up."

Patrolman Thomas Laney had some advice for one group of MPS:

"You won't to watch out for some of these absent-minded women shoppers these days. They've got so many things on their minds, what with grocery rationing and all, that they will like as not walk right out in the intersection when traffic is against them."

SAILOR'S NOTE TO MOTHER FOUND FLOATING IN BAY

Bottle Contains Message from Missing Seaman.

By The Associated Press

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., June 10—The discovery of a brief note in a bottle, believed scribbled by a Battle Creek boy who was reported lost on an American submarine more than a year ago, has produced one of the war's strange stories.

The note, which reads: "Mom: I'm still thinking of you. Lawrence Glass, Electric Ave., B. C., Mich.", has reached Lawrence's foster-mother, Mrs. H. F. Glass of Battle Creek.

The note was found in San Francisco bay by Elmer A. Jennings, an Army man stationed at Vallejo, Cal. He sent the note to Mrs. Glass, who said today she is certain the note was written by her foster son because "it was in his handwriting. Besides, he referred to me as mom, and nobody else knew he called me that."

Written on a small piece of paper, evidently a sheet torn from a small memo pad, the note was scribbled unevenly across the paper, indicating it must have been jotted down in a hurry. The paper is stained.

Seaman Glass was born in Columbus, O.

Love or Riches?—Radio Songstress Takes Former

By The Associated Press

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., June 10—Romance or riches was the choice that Lee Wiley, 28-year-old radio songstress, says she had to make—though her statement was contradicted.

Miss Wiley stated in an interview here that she was married Monday evening to Jee Stacy, 38, a pianist in Benny Goodman's band, and thus was unable to appear at Arrowhead Springs hotel yesterday for a military wedding to Lieut. Charles Boettcher, II, member of a promient Denver, Colo., family.

"I guess it was something like leaving him at the altar," said Miss Wiley. "And it's too bad, but it had to be that way. I don't think wealth is as important as love."

Boettcher, stationed at San Bernardino, Calif., said last night:

"We were not engaged, and had no plans for a wedding."

The kidnaping of Lt. Boetticher in 1933 drew national attention. He was released upon payment of $60,000 ransom by his family.

Defensive Warfare Near End in Pacific Area

By The Associated Press

CANBERRA, AUSTRALIA, June 10—Prime Minister John Curtin indicated today the time is approaching when the allies' strategy of defensive warfare in the southwest Pacific may give way to a policy of limited and perhaps full-scale attack upon the Japanese.

"The holding war imposed on us under circumstances of great difficulty has been an obligation under global strategy which has been discharged," Curtin declared. "I feel the pressure on this country is to be thrown back on the enemy."

The prime minister's declaration was part of a formal statement issued on the basis of his meetings at Sydney June 7 with General Douglas MacArthur, allied commander-in-chief in this theater of war.

Girls Wear Slacks In Ford Plant Controversy

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, June 10—Office girls at Ford Motor company's Highland Park plant reported for work today dressed in slacks, a truce having been reached in the slacks-or-dresses controversy.

The girls, staging a revolt against a company rule that all women employes whose work takes them near machinery at any time must wear slacks, reported for work three days in succession attired in dresses. They sat idle at their typewriters, because company officials refused to give them any work unless they went home and put on slacks.

The girls agreed to re-don their slacks until their grievance is appealed to a board of Ford and union officials.

BYRNES NOT IN RACE FOR VICE PRESIDENT

Informs Press Conference He Won't Seek Nomination.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 10—James F. Byrnes, war mobilization director, said yesterday he had no ambition to be vice president and under no circumstances would he seek nomination for the post.

Byrnes made the statement in response to questions at his first press conference since he became over-all director of the nation's home front activities.

He disclosed that he had sought meetings with the Truman war investigating committee of the senate and any similar single committee from the house to discuss ways to take up with him things that that committee believed needed to be improved in the war effort before they are aired in a controversial way on Capital Hill.

He also disclosed that Bernard M. Baruch, presidential consultant and head of the war industries board in the last World war, will assist him in an advisory capacity and will be assigned studies on government policies and programs.

Baruch will serve without pay or title and is more than glad to offer his services in such manner, Byrnes said.

The mobilization chief also said he would take a hand in considering future tax policies and had called a meeting with Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, Stabilization Director Fred M. Vinson and and Budget Director Harold D. Smith for this morning to discuss what he indicated was an impending statement by the President to be issued when he signs the pay-as-you-go tax bill.

The questions concerning the vice presidency stemmed from recent conjecture among some political observers that Byrnes might be President Roosevelt's running mate in 1944 should Mr. Roosevelt be nominated for a fourth term.

John Beer, Dan Salter, William C. Scott, industrial art instructors at Central, Vernon and Edison respectively supervised building of the models.

Another project relating to the war effort included in the industrial art program for the 1942-43 year was making games for Red Cross hospitals and centers. These games were mostly made of plywood and were for the use of invalid soldiers in army and Red Cross hospitals.

Work To Continue.

School officials expect requests from the government for more model airplanes next year. Additional games and other supplies needed by the Red Cross and other patriotic organizations may also be on the agenda of Marion junior high schools come next fall.

Women Radio Operators Badly Needed by WAAC

Women high school graduates between the ages of 21 and 45, who are otherwise qualified, are urged to start immediate training in radio repair work to be used as replacements for enlisted men in the United States Army.

Applicants, who must enroll in the WAAC, will be put on an inactive status until the three to six month training period has been completed, at which time they will go on active duty as a specialist in any of several fields where radio knowledge is required.

Information can be obtained from the WAAC Recruiting Office, located in the basement of the posioffice.

Warned of Deadline on Ration Book No. 3

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, June 10—The office of price administration reminded householders that today is the deadline for applying for war ration book No. 3.

The application blanks, already distributed among consumers, must be in the mails by midnight. Persons failing to meet the deadline must wait until Aug. 1 to make application.

Arthur S. Path, regional mailing director, reported that the percentage of errors in the mailed-in applications is less than first reports indicated. Of approximately 1,750,000 applications processed in Columbus, he said, only 12,250 were rejected.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Free the Seas

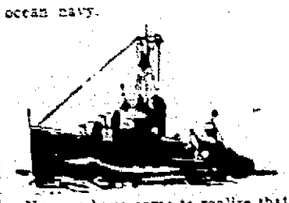
Before we win the final battle with Hitler's Nazis all navy men are agreed we must win the battle of the Atlantic; that is to free the sea lanes of the German U-boats.

A year ago we were building 54 cruisers and nearly 200 destroyers or just about enough for a two ocean navy.



Now we have come to realize that this war is to the finish, "winner take all" and our Government is building a five ocean navy.

That is why we are being asked to increase our subscriptions for War Bonds. That is why we must do it.

Good Neighbors and News

ARGENTINA'S headline role of the last few days raises a few questions of hemispheric good neighborliness usually neglected in the merely political approach. Chiefly, it raises the problem of news coverage in the South American field.

Citizens of the United States are anxious to comprehend what is happening in one of the most important South American governments. Judged by snap reaction to the story of the revolution and the wishful interpretations of Gen. Arturo Rawson's emergence as head of the country—interpretations which had to be discarded within a few hours when Gen. Rawson was supplanted by Gen. Pedro Ramirez, this country was over-anxious to find in the revolution something that may not have been there.

One of the first obligations of a good neighbor policy is to make a conscientious attempt to understand what is happing before jumping at conclusions. This entails possession of more information than was available about Argentina and more information than usually is available about the internal affairs of Latin American governments. Before the good neighbor policy can be brought to complete fruition, the groundwork laid by the pioneers who linked the news coverage of the American continents within the last quarter of a century will need to be expanded enormously. There is no truth in international relations more patent than the necessity for full exchange of reliable information.

The Zoot, Not the Suit

AMERICANA 1943, when compiled, will reserve space for the Los Angeles revolt against zoot suiters. It was led, apparently, by service men whose patience had been worn out by the antics of the young men who choose to identify themselves by this bizarre costume. A number of them were disrobed, and all who were abroad at the time were terrorized. Fortunately, no one was injured seriously in what amounted to civil riot.

It is the zoot, not the suit, that irritates. The suit has become the badge of a type of young male always unwelcomely with us. If memory serves, they have been called sheiks, lounge lizards and plain sports, all during the 40 years of this century. Their costumes at other times have been checkered waistcoats and bell bottom pants; the costumes change, but their role remains the same. They are the young men who invite suspicion of misbehavior.

In the absence of direct evidence to the contrary, it must be assumed that most of the zooters outgrow their foibles and finally dissolve into the general averages. They become paunchy middle-aged men longing for their cut-up days. In fact, some of the anti-zooters today may have prodded an urge to violence when they, as youths, were addicted to extreme costumes and the behaviourisms that made the costumes appropriate.

New Diplomatic Technique

ADMIRAL WILLIAM H. STANDLEY, who has been reported seeking relief in his post as ambassador to the Soviet Union, because "visiting firemen" seem to be more important, may be the accidental victim of a new diplomatic technique.

Airplane travel has made it tempting and feasible to conduct diplomatic relations on a personal contact basis, as illustrated by the meetings between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill. The ambassador on the scene has lost some of his former importance. Thus, Ambassador Standley, capable as he undoubtedly is, cannot take the place of a Joseph Davies on a confidential presidential mission. Nor could he substitute for the special performance by Wendell Willkie, another flying encounter that is believed to have disturbed Ambassador Standley.

In the post-war dreaming about airplanes now common, perhaps something should be included about diplomatic possibilities. When the head of one government has something to talk about with the head of another government, he will order his stratosphere plane and either get aboard himself or send a flying envoy, with orders to be back next day in time for lunch.

Relief for the Cuffed

THE philosophers among us who refused to believe it mattered whether men's pants had cuffs or didn't are vindicated. It didn't matter a whoop. It was just one more idea spawned in the ole bull hatchery in Washington; somehow it was washed up on shore; somehow the rumor got started that it would help win the war and—whisk—the cuffs were off.

The philosophers snickered. They kept on snickering when new suits began to appear without cuffs and laughed out loud when some old ones began to appear that way, too. Never for a moment did they doubt that time and the vagaries of Washington would bring them relief for their old-fashioned cuffed pants.

So now they are back in style. Henceforth they can accuse the cuffless of wearing last year's suit while pointing to their own stay-stained and threadbare models dating back to the depression years as the height of fashion. It now becomes the turn of the cuffless to be philosophical. What Washington has taken away and given back it can take away again.

News Behind the News

A Plain Discourse on What Is and What Is Not True Liberalism.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, June 10—Dear Mr. Bradford Hunt, Mayor of Cloudland:

I have just presented the orthodox liberal position as well although you do not agree to vote for Mr. Roosevelt in the November election in your letter to me.

You both charge that the theory of only one of the necessary freedom in the conflict between the workers and the employer, for instance. The alternatives, as you see them, are that the employer be free to exploit the individual worker or the individual worker be free to control the business.

That is the trouble with all liberal thought in this country and the reason why it is not liberal. True liberalism and true democracy say no group should be at liberty to control another group.

The corporation should not be free to exploit the individual or the union free to exploit the corporation. You ignore the great bulk of us—the consumers who pay the bills.

The duty of true liberal government is to defend the average—the greater good for the greater numbers.

Its interest is solely the interest of the average man. Its norm is the average of all freedoms of all classes and people.

It safeguards the rights of labor no more assiduously than the rights of business, knowing that both these rights are inferior to the common rights of all.

To find where your liberalism leads you, follow it to its logical conclusion and your ultimate victory. Crown it with success.

Example

You then have such things as John L. Lewis standing above the common good, actually able to conduct a devastating strike in wartime without punishment or any retribution whatever. He is able to ruin the price-wage policy of liberal labor government for the immediate ends of the worker—not their ultimate good, for inflation will destroy them as well as us all.

Lewis has no other interest than to keep coal miners pleased and paying dues, no responsibility to the government or the people, only the responsibility to get his men ever higher and higher pay and privileges. So also with all union leaders.

All men know these obvious truths, but no one dares speak them. Certainly no politician or Washington statesman does, because of fear of the political power that the naturally selfish (like the rest of us) union leader has amassed. Even the President of the United States in his dealings with Lewis obviously has not felt himself free of this pressure.

You should not be surprised to hear me say your view is reactionary, and illiberal. It was good liberalism back in the days of the elder LaFollette when unions were weak and oppressed and something like a Wall Street ogre in various forms and shapes was an economic power in the land.

Management is cursed today. Only one class and group has accumulated wealth out of this war—the labor union. Government made it that way.

Only the unions are free of the confiscatory wartime taxes which have and will continue to prevent any other group from acquiring wealth. You liberals forced the new millions of war workers into unions and the payment of taxfree dues, which comprise the only wealth secret from the inspection of anyone, even the government.

Evidence

No one knows, therefore, how much wealth the unions have amassed out of this war, but they are buying up property here, building big office buildings, even—ironically—lending money to Evalyn MacLean, the ex-millionairess, to build a bus terminal; and buying the building which the Republican national committee could not afford to buy.

They are the bankers now, even for presidential candidates. They have the new power of wealth, the only remaining power of wealth.

In this system, the average man has about as much freedom as a mine worker in the Lewis union who might want to do his patriotic duty and return to work.

Your liberalism thus has raised by enslavement the man who works with his hands above the independent man who works with his brain. You have spurned intellectual success to embrace manual uniformity.

Bricklayers earn more than school teachers and occupy a position of more civil power in your scheme of life under their union head. You control courts and make hijacking legal for unions only, but a crime for every other group.

Teamsters probably earn more than the writers for your liberal magazine, the New Republic. Certainly, scrub women earn as much working for the government in Washington as some white collar clerks.

Your liberalism, which professes a devotion to learning, truthful art and independent thinking, worships the man who cannot read, write or think, and makes him your norm.

You have made the noble professions less profitable and less desirable for coming generations. You want to confiscate success in all lines in favor of a union norm, even reducing medicine to a wholesale government business.

The taxes you advocate put a penalty on the teacher, artist, inventor, doctor, lawyer, writer who struggles through 20 years of preparation to attain a great success. What thinker in this country has the power or actual prestige of John L. Lewis or the local political bosses?

The consequences of your liberalism are an end of democracy and a strong-armed quasi-dictatorship under a democratic name, which can be run only by one of two classes.

If the conservatives can get control of it, they will crush you. As long as you are in control, you will crush everyone else. Indeed, this is what you proclaim to be your aim.

Do you call that liberalism? Or freedom? Or democracy? I call it reactionarism, despotism, and totalitarianism.

Meet Major Craighill

She's First Woman Doctor in Army Medical Corps.

MAJOR CRAIGHILL
Army gal from 'way back

By MARGARET KERNODLE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, June 10—The surest a man is, the more willing he is to accept a woman doctor, declared dynamic Major Margaret D. Craighill, first woman doctor of the United States Army Medical Corps, during her first day on duty in the surgeon general's office.

She concedes a well man probably prefers a male doctor and her attitude is—"Why shouldn't he?"

Dr. Craighill's administrative ability rates high as a result of her reorganization of the nation's only college for women doctors, the Women's Medical college of Philadelphia, which has 1,000 living graduates. In her 13-year practice at Greenwich, Conn., she has taken care of men patients for years in clinics, hospitals and as private patients, along with women and children. She has specialized in surgery, gynecology and obstetrics. Preventive medicine will be her specialty with the Army.

Hopes for Field Service

She hopes women Army doctors "will carry [illegible] medical work in military areas wherever needed, if their training qualifies them just as they have in civilian life."

She hopes too that women Army doctors won't "just be segregated for duty with the WAACs." She doesn't think they'll ever be used for routine physicals such as induction examinations for Army men.

Dr. Craighill is a great believer in medical education of older women, is proud of the college she headed as dean, where one grandmother is enrolled now, and says "women students over 40 do very well and make good."

Major Craighill is an Army gal from way back. Both father and grandfather were Army officers; consequently she traveled around the country a lot with her five sisters and her parents, who never seemed to settle in one place long enough for her to acquire a formal education. But finally when they moved to Portland, Me., one of her sisters thought it would be nice for Margaret to go to high school, to see if she could make it. She did, and went on to the University of Wisconsin and then to Johns Hopkins.

Traveling was the basis of the Craighill education; the children learned history everywhere they went; the family read a lot and her mother, Mrs. Mary W. Craighill of Williamsport, Va., and her late father were great linguists.

Is a Southerner

A tall, slim Tar Heel (she was born in Southport, N. C., descendant of the Virginia House of Burgess), she often has been mistaken for Amelia Earhart.

She wears no makeup—doesn't need to, with a complexion that complements her wavy gray hair and light blue eyes.

Her only ring is a slender platinum wedding band. She is the wife of a medical school classmate, Dr. J. L. Vickers, now a Greenwich, Conn., surgeon, with whom she never practiced as a partner but consulted professionally on occasion. She insists she cannot cook.

She arrived in Washington in a tailored beige suit and low heeled pumps. She doesn't like oxfords.

Today she plays "a mid-Victorian version" of tennis but enjoys it just as much as she did when she was a college champion. She reads to relax, and says, "The more tired I get the more detective stories I read."

As procurement assignment war manpower vice-chairman, she is anxious to get women doctors into the Army, but "the machinery isn't greased yet." She wants to avoid the belligerent attitude shown by some women doctors in the past.

Her great hobby is her "fine brown French poodle," Lady Melissa, fondly called "Missy," who has been following her to medical school, sitting under her desk and now is a duration dog with a friend.

"AIR ACTIVITY ON ALL FRONTS"

Allan Lockheed's Dream: Aerial Flivver

By Marvin L. Arrowsmith
Associated Press Writer.

ALLEN LOCKHEED has been in aviation since the early days. He has designed and built aircraft that blazed sky trails, but he counts the past as only a prelude to the real story of the skies.

Since 1929, Lockheed has not been associated with the firm that he founded and which still bears his name, but through 33 years aviation always has been first in his mind. He is general manager now of the aircraft division of a Grand Rapids, Mich., company that in peacetime made store equipment, but is now manufacturing plywood surface control parts—ailerons—for one of the navy's fastest fighter planes. With other top flight designers Lockheed was recruited by the government to draft plans for a cargo plane that is about to move into production. He is bound by military secrecy concerning details of the ship, but is confident it will be a real contribution toward winning the war.

IT'S impossible to give your imagination enough rein when you think of the next 20 years in aviation," Lockheed says. "In design as well as construction the plane of tomorrow will be as far ahead of present ships as they are ahead of the first ones. That will be one good result of the war, which has advanced aviation a generation in the space of a few months."

Lockheed envisions great airliners capable of carrying 300 or 400 persons (he says such a plane could be built now), but his own ambition runs to a family model—"one for the general public."

The ship is on Lockheed's drafting board now. It's a five-place, twin-engine, amphibious craft and Lockheed says it's the kind of aerial runabout that the Joneses won't want to do without a few years hence.

"It's amphibious," Lockheed explains, "because very soon it will be as common to land on a waterway as on the ground. People will want a plane they can fly to summer resorts and set down on a lake. It will be easily converted for the type of landing desired."

Lockheed expects the cost of this plane to be less than $3,000, brought to that figure through quantity production. It should get, he estimates, 16 to 18 miles on a gallon of gasoline, with the engines embodying all the engineering advances he sees in the offing.

Lockheed concedes that many people may regard these predictions as preposterous, but claims that they are much more solidly based than were the prognastications of a quarter century ago that airplanes would span oceans. Aviation will also play a big role, he believes, in opening vast territories now virtually inaccessible and largely unpopulated. The natural wealth and resources of these places will bring whole new communities to them by air, he says.

LOCKHEED was a young man scarcely out of his 'teens when in 1910 he decided aviation was the career for him.

Within two years, he had designed and built the first of a long line of Lockheed planes, a three-place tractor seaplane. By 1916 he and his brother Malcolm had founded their own company at Santa Barbara. In the next few years they concentrated on development of a twin-engine, 10-passenger seaplane, establishing a non-stop flight record with a hop from Santa Barbara to San Diego—225 miles.

Other models followed, embracing the first use, Lockheed says, of molded-under-pressure plywood in an airplane.

The Lockheed Aircraft Co. of Los Angeles was formed in 1926 and three years later the firm was turning out five planes a week—something to shout about then. From this plant came Wiley Post's "Winnie Mae," destined to fly twice around the world. Earlier Lockheed had designed and built the plane in which Sir Hubert Wilkins blazed Arctic sky trails. Amelia Earhart and Charles and Anne Lindbergh wrote history in Lockheed planes.

Lockheed resigned from the company in 1929. His great hope now is that the war will be ended quickly. The prospects of aviation's new era fascinates him.

Rationing Help

By DAMON RUNYON

Household Employes in Clover But They Should Be Allocated on Basis of One to a Family.

THERE is a shortage of household employes all over the nation. Wherever I go I hear from ladies in command of private romaines most harrowing tales of their experiences with what they call "the servant problem."

"Servants" is the term that has come into general use in this country to describe butlers, chauffeurs, maids and other persons employed in homes. It is entirely correct if we go by the dictionary, but I prefer calling them household employes and am not entirely satisfied with that.

I think the word "servant" is one reason why many persons decline work in private homes on any terms. They feel that in this connection "servant" denotes something menial. The word is still shunned in some parts of the country out of deference on the part of employers to the feelings of their household employes, the latter compromise being just "the help."

Of course the war is immediately responsible for the current shortage. Men and women alike of any age and of moderate capability can get work in defense plants at better wages than most of them could command in private homes and with better hours. They can also have greater freedom and equality, the latter, I think, being the most important consideration.

LONG before the war the ladies in command of homes were having the "servant problem" and there was a shortage of good household employes because many ladies employing this type of labor overworked and underpaid them and imposed upon them unsorry living conditions and petty restrictions that any self-respecting person would rather preferred scratching gravel with the chickens to hiring out for housework.

When the opportunity presented itself, thousands of household employes who had stood for murder, as the saying is, from capricious employers, walked out on their jobs, leaving the ladies explaining tearfully to all listeners how lovely they had been to those people and what ingrates they had turned out to be, forgetting the bawlings-out they had administered and their frequent disregard of the rights of the employes as human beings.

Men and women who have remained in household employment are in clover. In some parts of the United States they are getting the highest wages ever paid their kind of work in history. They have shorter hours, more days off, better working conditions and less labor. I have just heard of a lady whose cook did not fancy the employer's husband, so the husband was dismissed. The lady figures she can always get a husband, but cooks are really scarce.

THE household employes could not be better off if they had the union I used to advocate, to the great distress of all the employers. I say this is as it should be. I have always contended that any lady who wants a household employe should either be able to pay excellent wages and insure good working conditions, or haul off and do the work herself.

I am not sure that more than one household employe should be permitted any able-bodied lady during wartime anyway.

In short, I am leaning to the idea that such employes should be rationed. A lady who has two should be required to send me one. I believe that if the ladies were forced to do at least a part of their household work it would improve their health and enhance the beauty of the landscape in every community, now so often marred by what appear to be barrels rolling down the boulevards but on closer inspection turn out to be those vast beams that many of our ladies are developing as a result of inertia around the house.

It has been years since I last saw a lady of the house with a towel wrapped around her head and her dress hiked up above her knees belting away with a broom, though I do recall seeing one in 1923 grappling with a vacuum cleaner on her maid's day off. I recall that particular incident because the lady went completely swooned from over-exertion.

I believe if we ration household employes and get back to the good old type of dame who thought nothing of juggling a skillet with one hand and diapering a baby with the other, the nation will soon return to normal.

"Torpedo Lane"

A National Geographic Bulletin

Cleaning Axis forces off Tunisia's Cape Bon Peninsula gave United Nations armies a great fight at an old invasion route into Europe, the Sicilian narrows of the Mediterranean.

Cape Bon on the southwest and Sicily on the northeast squeeze the Mediterranean into a bottleneck 85 to 90 miles wide, the shortest distance between North Africa and Europe east of Gibraltar.

Before Axis defeat in Tunisia, planes harrassed shipping so successfully that the narrows came to be known as "Torpedo Lane."

An obvious short cut, the route across the Sicilian narrows has carried two-way invasion traffic since the beginning of history. Nazis pouring supplies across it into Tunisia were imitating King Charles V of Spain, who sent an expedition from Sicily to capture Tunis from the Barbary pirates four centuries ago.

The narrows divide the hourglass-shaped Mediterranean into a well-watered western basin and a larger, drier eastern basin where drouth brings the desert in many places almost to the sea. Difference in climate and crops have encouraged trade through the narrows. Control of the bottleneck has meant power over inter-basin shipping since the days of the Phoenicians.

Ancient Carthage, predecessor of Tunis, established bases at Palermo and Marsala in Sicily in a bid for power over the bottleneck. Rome expanded to an empire after seizing Sicily and then Carthage, controlling both sides of the narrows.

Malta is a British stopper in the Mediterranean bottleneck, dominating the eastern entrance. Heavy Axis bombing of this stout island fortress has been a clue to its importance.

Smaller islands hold Italian bases—Pantelleria, Lampedusa and Linosa. Rocky, strongly fortified Pantelleria, 45 miles east of Cape Bon, is not so large as the District of Columbia.

At the Sicilian narrows the sea is only 360 feet deep, the shallowest part of the Mediterranean. The islands and the shallows point to an old land bridge between the continents. Animals once walked across it from Africa to Europe, including perhaps the famous dwarf elephants of Malta. Migrating birds still follow this route.

So They Say

There are two things we look forward to. The first is to share with her (Russia) the fate of battle. The second is to live with her in friendship and understanding in a world where the phrase "peace in our time" is something more than a hope.—Maj. Gen. Sanderford Jarman, anti-aircraft chief of eastern defense command.

Yank Flier No Longer Anti-British After Experience in North Africa

By The Associated Press

LONDON, June 10—Back from North Africa where the RAF's "know how" perhaps saved his life in the desert, First Lieut. H. B. (Buddy) Rosenson of New York City, has met the queen and as a result of the two incidents regards himself as no longer anti-British.

Queen Elizabeth picked him out of a crowd of notables at a charity fair in London yesterday and asked "where have you come from?"

He already had dropped his cigaret and straightened his shoulders when he saw her approaching.

"I have just returned from Tunisia," he said.

The rest of his story is this:

He was the bomber-navigator on a fortress which spent the week before the North African landings in ferrying staff officers to headquarters at Gibraltar. He went on the first of his 26 bombing operations from North Africa on Nov. 29, attacking an airfield in Sardinia.

In a raid on Tripoli on Jan. 17 the Fortress, piloted by Lieut. Ray Wilkins of Selma, O., was heavily attacked by fighters and flak.

"The whole tail assembly caught fire," Rosenson said. "When we saw we couldn't put it out, we rang the alarm and bailed out."

Hiking across the desert with Technical Sergeant William Bishop of Louisville, Ky., tail-gunner, he joined up with the Fighting French in southern Tunisia and reported back for duty even before a message could be sent his family that he was missing.

Two others are prisoners and six others including Wilkins, are missing.

"I followed the British procedure in the desert escape," Rosenson said in explaining how he owed freedom and possibly his life to British experience.

"I had read a RAF pamphlet which tells how to travel in the desert and to find food and water," he said. "It didn't tell you how to steal clothes from the Arabs—which I did."

"When I came to England in July, 1942 I was anti-British," he added. "The whole outfit was. Everybody said, 'the British will fight to the last American' and all that stuff. The truth is the British will fight to save the last American.

"Any American who has fought with them in North Africa has changed his opinion of the British. By their experience and assistance they saved a devil of a lot of Americans."

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA, June 5 — (Delayed) — Lt. Gen. George C. Kenney, commander of allied air forces in the southwest Pacific area, today presented the air medal to 39 officers and enlisted men, including Staff Sgt. George C. McClellan of Canton, O., for participating in a bombing attack on Lae, New Guinea, in the face of stormy weather and heavy anti-aircraft fire.

YANKS HOLD JAP FLEET TO BASES

But Time of Victory Still Uncertain, Navy Aid Says.

By The Associated Press

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 10—James V. Forrestal, undersecretary of the Navy, said yesterday Japan's fleet has been "nailed to its own bases" and that aerial bombings are beginning to "soften the fortress of Europe." But he declared that the time of victory still is uncertain and talk of reconversion of manufacturing facilities to peacetime products now is "premature and dangerous."

In a speech prepared for the graduating class of the coast guard academy, Forrestal said the nation looks to the end of the war with confidence and hope "but it is dangerous to fix any dates when that end is to come. Wars are over when the last gun is fired."

SHORTAGE OF FEED MEANS LIGHTER HOGS

Streamlined Porkers Soon To Find Way to Market.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 10—Trim, streamlined hogs soon will replace roly-poly porkers at the marketplace.

Such was the forecast made by the agriculture department today in reporting that prospective supplies of corn and other livestock feeds will be insufficient during the coming feeding season to fatten hogs to extra heavy weights.

Hogs have been going to market weighing 250 pounds and more. Farmers may be asked to start marketing them at weights of 200 to 225 pounds instead. Scientific studies indicate that the most efficient use of feed is obtained by feeding hogs to around 200 pounds.

A reduction in the weights of hogs would mean, of course, a smaller volume of pork, but the reduction would be greater in the case of lard than in meat cuts.

There has been a strong demand for corn and other feeds in recent weeks and shortages of corn have developed in most primary markets, the department reported. Rail shipments have not been adequate to meet requirements of feed manufacturers, grain processors and livestock feeders.

Texas Woman Freed in Oklahoma Slaying

By The Associated Press

TULSA, Okla., June 10—Freed yesterday in the fatal shooting of Mrs. T. Karl Simmons, wife of the wealthy Tulsa oil man who has given her diamonds and money, Mrs. Ella B. Howard dried her tears and said she plans a quiet life with her two children and her mother.

She wept as the jury verdict was returned last night after an hour and 50 minutes of deliberation. It ended a day of tense drama in the manslaughter trial of the 44-year-old Fort Worth divorcee.

During the day Mrs. Howard had told of her struggle with Mrs. Simmons in a room of the Skirvin Mayo hotel on March 7—a struggle that ended in the death of the Tulsa woman.

Simmons, from the witness stand, had admitted giving Mrs. Howard $20,000, diamonds and other gifts, "because I wanted to."

HOME AGENTS OF 5 COUNTIES TO MEET

Marion To Be Represented in Camp Planning Session.

Home agents from Marion, Crawford, Seneca, Wyandot and Erie counties will hold a meeting at Tiffin Monday afternoon to make final plans concerning a rural women's program at Camp Pittenger from Aug. 3 to Aug. 8.

This meeting is the second of a series on home agent camps. The first was held in Bucyrus on May 4 at which time rural women who formerly attended camps offered suggestions as to a suitable program for this year's camps.

Former campers in each of the five counties to be represented at the Tiffin meeting are acting as a camp committee to take enrollments of rural women.

Any Marion county woman wishing to know more about the Camp Pittenger session should contact Mrs. Christine Cook, Marion county home demonstration agent, at the county agricultural extension office in the basement of the postoffice building.

Camp Pittenger is located near McCutchenville on the boundary line between Seneca and Wyandot counties.

Dance Band Musicians Beaten by Two Sailors

PHILADELPHIA, June 10—A pianist and a saxophonist in Gene Krupa's dance band were mistaken for zoot-suiters and severely beaten by two unidentified sailors early today in a Broadway street subway station.

The pianist, Michael Marmarosa, 17, of Pittsburgh, was taken unconscious to Hahnemann hospital and attendants said he possibly suffered a skull fracture. The saxophonist, Boniface De Franco, 20, of Philadelphia, was treated for a cut lip.

The musicians, playing with the band at a dance hall here, were wearing their band uniforms—light blue gabardine jackets, darker trousers, starched white shirts and bow ties. Before the attack, De Franco said, "both sailors mumbled something about zoot suits."

Salvage Program Drops Scrap Rubber Collection

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 10—The collection of scrap rubber was dropped today from Ohio's general salvage program.

Robert O. Weible, state executive secretary of the war production board's general salvage section, said that "in view of the large tonnage of scrap rubber now available, due in great measure to the activities of our volunteer salvage workers and the splendid response of the citizens of Ohio who met this most vexing problem and solved it in such a satisfactory manner, we are now able to suspend this program and concentrate our efforts on scrap iron, tin can, waste kitchen fats and other salvage programs."

Milk May Be Next on Rationed Food List

By The Associated Press

SACRAMENTO, Calif., June 10—Milk may be the next commodity to be rationed, a federal authority disclosed today.

The war food administration, the office of price administration and the dairy industry are studying ways of limiting civilian consumption of milk, expecting a decline in supplies later this year, said T. G. Stitts, chief of dairy and poultry in the WFA, in a speech prepared for delivery before the California Dairy Council.

Red Comintern Now Is Completely Dissolved

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, June 10—Dissolution of the Communist International was completed today when the executive committee announced that sections in 30 different nations had unanimously approved the decision to disband.

The committee's decision to dissolve the Comintern—which was established in 1919 to mobilize working class parties all over the world—was announced May 22. Approval of the sections announced today constituted a mere formality.

CAR SALES EASED

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 10—The OPA removed today the ban on new automobiles to firms doing a rental car business, but specified that popular-priced models bought under the new order could be rented only to essential workers having ration certificates entitling them to rent cars. These limitations were put on hard-top cars with a manufacturer's list price of less than $1,500. The rental companies also must get rationing certificates from local ration boards before buying new cars.

JUST LIKE HOUSEKEEPING

By The United Press

BERKELEY, Cal.—"Warehousing and inventory control is just like housekeeping on a huge scale," according to Mrs. R. T. Jenkins, who was so fearful about giving up housekeeping for something new that she took a University Training course in one of nine centers where 750 women are being trained for these wartime jobs. She was the first one to get such a job and now she likes it better than housekeeping.

ICKES ORDERS MINERS FINED

Penalty To Be Levied Against Men for Time Lost in June 1-5 Strike.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 10—Secretary Ickes said today that miners who participated in the June 1-7 walkout from government-operated pits would be fined in accordance with their contracts, which usually provide penalties of $1 per day if a miner fails to work without good reason.

Ickes acted as federal boss of the mines.

Most of John L. Lewis' 530,000-odd United Mine Workers were out from June 1 through June 5, making them liable for fines of $5 each for the five-day absence from the mines. Under the contracts, the penalty money goes to selected charities.

Ickes, adding that fines would again be levied if another walkout takes place before or after the present truce ends at midnight June 20, declared that before last week's walkout "we told the miners we were going to fine them if they went out again."

Ickes Order Raises Ire of Miners

By The Associated Press

FAIRMONT, W. Va., June 10 — An official of United Mine Workers District 31, who declined use of his name, said today that union miners "would not stand for" the order of Fuel Administrator Ickes that they be fined for the June 1-5 walkout.

The spokesman said that "this means another walkout" if the government attempts to assess the penalty, which usually amounts to $1 a day.

He added there was no contract under which the penalties could be claimed.

36,688 PRISONERS OF WAR IN THESE U. S. CAMPS. Captured enemy soldiers numbering 36,688 already are being held in 21 prison camps that have been established in the United States and more are planned to receive increasing numbers of German, Italian and Japanese soldiers. Most of the camps in use now are permanent, but a few will be used only temporarily, as indicated on this map of the camps.

STIMSON DEFENDS WAACS' REPUTATION

Secretary Declares Rumors Are Completely False.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 10—Secretary of War Stimson said today that "sinister rumors aimed at destroying the reputation" of the WAACS through charges of immorality "are absolutely and completely false."

"I refer," Stimson said at a press conference, "to charges of immorality and particularly to the allegation that the war department has agreed to the issuance of contraceptives and prophylactic equipment to the members of this corps."

He added that "anything which would interfere with their recruiting or destroy the reputation of the corps and, by so doing, interfere with increase in the combat strength of our Army, would be of value to the enemy. The repetition of any unfounded rumor concerning this corps lessens confidence in it and is actually an aid to the enemy."

The strength of the women's Army auxiliary corps, Stimson said, has reached 65,000, releasing soldiers for front-line duty to the extent of four combat divisions. "As a yardstick," he added, "our combat ground force in the Tunisian campaign consisted of just four divisions.

"The authorized strength of this corps is 150,000 and since the objective behind the enlistment of the corps is to relieve able-bodied soldiers for combat duty, you can well see that we are speaking now of a sizeable increase in our fighting forces."

The secretary asserted emphatically that any reflection on the WAACS "is in essence a reflection on the whole of American womenhood; for these 65,000 women are a cross section of the womenhood of our nation.

"They are the teachers who taught your children; the wives, sweethearts, sisters and even mothers of the men who are today fighting to save our freedom. When they are maligned, when vicious rumor destroys their reputations, the effects could reach into our very front lines, injuring the morale of the Army itself. The story of the women's Army auxiliary corps is already a fine chapter in the story of American womenhood.

"I emphasize the fact that I have made a thorough investigation of all these rumors. They are completely false."

Two women members of congress rose in indignant defense of the WAACS against what they described as "loose talk" and "whispering" campaigns to discredit American womanhood.

Rep. Edith Nourse Rogers (R-Mass), who sponsored legislation that created the auxiliary, told the house "nothing would please Hitler more" than current efforts to "discredit" the WAACS and American women in general.

Both Mrs. Rogers and Representative Norton (D-NJ) referred in their one-minute talks to a newspaper story saying WAACS would be furnished contraceptives and prophylactics.

"Loose talk concerning our women in the armed services," said Mrs. Norton, "cannot be less than Nazi-inspired."

If the author of the stories "cannot put on a uniform and serve his country," she commented, "he certainly should not slander those who try to do so."

FOR WILLOWY TYPE. Just right for the willowy type of girl is this two-piece silk jersey swimsuit. The snug trunks have bright red side panels contrasting with the white front section. And Screen Actress Evelyn Keyes fits into them in just the right way.

Ickes Denies Intention To Limit Mid-West Gas

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 10—Secretary Ickes flatly told the Eastern states oil committee today that there is no immediate plan to impose present eastern gasoline restrictions on the Middle West.

The interior secretary and his deputy petroleum administrator, Ralph K. Davies, both said that building up reserves in district 2, embracing middle western states, would have little effect in the east because transportation facilities are lacking to carry the additional supplies to the Atlantic seaboard.

Ickes said his agency, the petroleum administration for war, would utilize lake shipping. New York canal barges, tank cars released by completion of pipel... and every possible facility ... oil and gasoline to the east... he held out little encouragement that the supply would be great...

"Daily Eight" Set As Ultimate Rule for Child's Diet

Fast Growing Youngster Is Soon in Need of Adult Food.

There is good reason to celebrate the lighting of the first candle on baby's birthday cake—particularly if the child is a robust example of all the benefits of good nutrition.

To this point the infant shall have been practically "brought up" on milk, with the introduction of some cereals, vegetables and fruits. But as the days add up to a second year, the infant diet will be amplified under the direction of the doctor, until it includes all categories of food which make up the "daily-eight" Nutrition Food Rules, proved by science to be vital to every person's well being—and in proper quantities, daily.

It is in the second year that the child becomes acquainted with ALL the foods which will make up a nutritional diet for a lifetime!

The increased energy needs of the child must now be provided for, as must his growing need for proteins, minerals and vitamins—through these foods: one of each group appearing in his daily diet.

Milk Still First

First come milk and milk products which have already been the basis of the child's menu. In addition to being served as a food-beverage they will now take the form of simple desserts, slightly sweetened, and will also be used in some soups and vegetables; while cheeses will make their appearance on the baby's feeding plate.

The second group of nutrition foods includes oranges, tomatoes, and grapefruit which the baby continues getting mostly in juice form until he has enough teeth for comfortable management of solid and pulpy textures. Alternates to these foods are raw cabbage and salad greens, which are usually added to the child's menu toward the third year.

Baby's third selection of nutrition foods includes green and yellow vegetables, important because their very coloring is evidence of their valuable mineral and vitamin content. The fourth choice is from other vegetables and fruit in season, including white potatoes. These foods need no longer be strained, but may be fed to the child chopped or diced, because he must now learn to chew slowly and thoroughly before he swallows.

Fifth on baby's list of foods are the bread and cereals to be provided in larger amounts to meet the demands of a larger appetite. Whenever possible, whole grain products or those made of enriched flour are to be desired in preference to others.

Meat and Eggs

Sixth — and most popular with baby's palate, are the meat, poultry and fish to which he will be treated during the second year, and which are the chief sources of protein, body "fuel," minerals and vitamins.

Seventh among the child's most important foods are eggs; and the well fed baby gets a whole egg once each day, starting with the second year.

Eighth comes butter and other vitamin-rich spreads such as peanut butter, which are especially important sources of vitamins A and B.

Golden rules for good health and sound development, the nutrition food rules can easily be adapted to the child's changing requirements of increasing variety and quantity: the important thing is that he eat the daily-eight daily!

ZOOT SUIT

mittee which recently held hearings on alleged un-American activities, said he had evidence the zoot suit demonstrations had been axis-sponsored.

Juvenile authorities said the only things new about the present clashes were the outlandish garb and the involvement of soldiers and sailors.

They said East Side gangs for years have clashed with tire irons, sand-filled hose and other weapons when groups from one neighborhood tried to crash a party in another or go out with girls from another district.

Authorities are perplexed, however, over the clashes with service men. The service men, they said, claim their buddies have been set upon by zooters; the zooters claim a batch of sailors started it, and that men in uniform have been calling them uncomplimentary names.

In San Diego, group of service men, numbering from a dozen to 300 or 400, roamed the downtown streets last night, on the lookout for zoot-suiters reported to be infiltrating from Los Angeles. More than 100 sailors and marines stormed down a main street after several youths wearing the outlandish garb, but the zoot-suiters fled before fists began to swing.

Check Radio Equipment by Official Musical Note

By The United Press

BALTIMORE, MD. — Engineers of the Radio division of Bendix Aviation Corp. here have their own musical choice for Number One on the war production hit parade and it isn't "That Old Black Magic" or "As Time Goes By."

It's an unsullied, steady musical note broadcast from Washington as "purity signal" by the staid United States Bureau of Standards, official guardians of all America's standard measurements. All radio communications and electronic specialty equipment developed and mass produced by Bendix for the armed forces is checked for accuracy by this most accurate of all radio broadcasts—the standard musical pitch of 440 cycles per second transmitted night and day by "WWV" the federal bureau's official radio station.

RADIO PREACHER HEARD IN SALVATION ARMY MEETING

Dr. Monroe Parker To Speak In Service Tonight.

Rev. Marvin Lewis, radio preacher, spoke last night at the Salvation Army citadel on West Center street. Basing his address on the Scripture, "The fruit of the righteous is a tree of life, and he that winneth souls is wise," the speaker gave a message showing the concrete realities with a life of faith and devotion to the Divine will. In contrast with the transient and fleeting things of material and mere sensual living. The program was one of a series of special evangelistic services being conducted at the Salvation Army Hall.

Tonight Dr. Monroe Parker from Bob Jones college, Cleveland, Tenn., will be speaker. His subject will be "How Firm a Foundation." Dr. Parker has just concluded a special series of evangelistic meetings among the business and professional men of Chicago.

These special services will continue through June 20. The Bible school from 9:30 to 11:30 every morning has an enrollment of 60 students.

SISTER TO RECEIVE BROTHER'S MEDAL

Ohio Woman Summoned to White House.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 10—Mrs. Edith Hall Price of nearby Obetz said today she had been summoned to Washington to receive from President Roosevelt the Congressional medal of honor, awarded posthumously to her brother, Corp. Lewis Hall, who died in battle on Guadalcanal on Jan. 10.

A letter from the the adjutant general's office, asking Mrs. Price to receive the government's highest military honor in behalf of her brother said the award was for "conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity above and beyond the call of duty."

It said Corporal Hall, a 47-year-old infantryman transferred to a machine gun squad at his own request, and members of his squad accounted for at least 40 of the enemy before he met death.

Corporal Hall, a recipient of the order of the Purple Heart, was sent to Guadalcanal from Pearl Harbor where he was stationed at the war's outbreak. He had served in the U. S. Army almost continually since World War I.

The sister who will accept Corporal Hall's medal has a laudable war record herself. She is the wife of a veteran of the first World war, the mother of two soldiers in the present war and served as a nurse in the former conflict.

MOTOR VEHICLES IN OHIO SHOW DECLINE

Drop of 5 Per Cent Reported to Sours.

The number of automobiles, trucks motorcycles and trailers in Ohio this year will show a decline of about five per cent compared with 1942, Highway Director H. G. Sours is advised by C. W. Wallace, the department's registrar of motor vehicles.

For the first two months of the 1943 registration year—April and May—compared with the first quarter of last year a drop of $1,415,000 in revenue was shown. Director Sours was told that represents "a 5.3 per cent decline."

There were only 1,861,003 automotive vehicles registered during that two-month period, compared with 1,995,049 vehicles registered during the first three months of 1942.

Registration for the balance of this year will not be as heavy as in 1942, but the total loss for this year will be "about five per cent," according to Mr. Wallace.

On the basis of anticipated registration in June, figures for which are not yet available, Director Sours was informed that the decrease in revenue for the first three months of 1943 will total about two to three per cent, compared with the corresponding period last year.

Revenue derived from license tag sales for the first quarter of 1943 was $26,796,373, compared with $25,381,229 for the first two months of the 1943 registration year.

Anticipated revenue for the month of June is $800,000. Director Sours was told that "will hold the decline to between two and three per cent for the first three months of this registration year."

HOG PRICES NEAR U. S. SUPPORT LEVEL

Fall Below $14 First Time This Year.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 10—With the average hog price slumping below $14 a hundred pounds for the first time this year, a representative of the food distribution administration, who asked anonymity, said today the government had "every intention" of holding to its pledge to support the market at $13.75.

The government support level was announced early this year, but it has never been brought into action because, until this week, hogs have sold well above the minimum. In the first three days this week, however, prices slumped about 40 cents and many head sold yesterday at $14.80 a hundred pounds. Average price was about $13.85.

The food distribution administration said the support level was an "average price." Therefore, it said, some hogs sold on any given day would not be permitted to slump below that point. The $13.75 figure applies only to Chicago, with the support level at other cities based upon the Chicago price.

Traders in the livestock market were puzzled over what supporting action the government would take, if it were necessary. While the FDA could buy live hogs, it would have to turn them over to packers for slaughtering, it was pointed out, as the government has no killing facilities of its own. In that case, the FDA presumably would pay the packers a fee to cover slaughtering and dressing expenses.

A more likely method, it was said, would be an increase in purchases of meat by the FDA, acting for the military forces and lend-lease.

The run of hogs to this market this week has been the heaviest for June in nine years.

WOODALL TESTIFIES IN DEMPSEY TRIAL

Says Ex-Champ's Wife Was Only a Friend.

By The Associated Press

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., June 10 "Mrs. Dempsey wasn't married as far as I was concerned * * * she was a friend," Benny Woodall, named by Jack Dempsey as a co-respondent in his divorce against Hannah Williams Dempsey, told the court today during cross-examination.

Woodall, who obviously maintained his temper with difficulty as Attorney Arthur Driscoll plied him with questions, denied yesterday that he ever had been intimate with Mrs. Dempsey as charged by the former heavyweight boxing champion.

Benny, a former fighter and promoter, in answer to a question from Driscoll, said he might have telephoned the Dempsey apartment in New York two or three times a week as he frequently called the apartment to talk with his sister, Mrs. Jackie Griffin, who was there most of the time.

Q. "Was there any married woman you called more than once a day?"

A. "Mrs. Dempsey wasn't married as far as I was concerned. It made no difference to me. I wasn't interested in Mrs. Dempsey more than a friend. I was a friend of both Mrs. Dempsey and Mr. Dempsey."

Q. "But it made no difference to you that Mrs. Dempsey was married?"

A. "Listen. Mrs. Dempsey was a friend; Dempsey was a friend; I had nothing to do with their martial problems."

Q. "It was not unusual for you to call a married woman every day?"

A. "She was not a married woman to me. She was a friend—a friend."

Q. "When did you start going out with Mrs. Dempsey — after Jenkins was through, wasn't it?"

A. "Ridiculous."

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

LEGISLATURE IS READY TO ADJOURN SESSION

Members Meet To Finish Business Today.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 10—The 95th general assembly meets today for what is expected to be its last working session.

As the legislators returned after a 10-day recess leaders expressed hope final action could be taken today on the four important bills remaining on the calendars.

Even if business were completed in one day, final adjournment probably would not come for more than a week when a skeleton session would be held for presiding officers to sign approved bills.

The major bills approved in some form by both branches but awaiting concurrence in conference committees provide for the biennial appropriation, sundry claims, increased unemployment compensation premiums for war industries and aid to weaker school districtms.

The appropriation measure agreed to by conference was said to provide a total of $369,034,569, about $700,000 less than the budget submitted by Gov. Bricker.

AIR BATTLES RAGE ON RUSSIAN FRONT

Conflicts Gain in Ferocity at Many Points.

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, June 10 — Increasingly vigorous air battles were reported today from widely separated points of the front as the German air force and the Soviet plane fleet continued to fight it out in a prelude to a 1943 land offensive.

Dispatches from Batajsk, 10 miles south of Rostov, disclosed that air fighting had flared up again in the Don river valley. The vicinity of the city and the mud flats of the Don have become a cemetery for downed Junkers and Heinkel planes, it was reported, with anti-aircraft batteries scoring heavily.

The news of the Don basin aerial war came on the heels of German raids on the Volkhov front 60 miles southeast of Leningrad, where 24 German planes were reported shot down. From 150 to 160 German planes were declared destroyed in Russian bombing raids on German airdromes Tuesday night. The Russians said they lost 26 planes in the engagements.

Land action played a minor role. The Soviet midnight communique said about 200 Germans were killed and guns, observation posts and an ammunition dump were smashed on the Smolensk front, while German positions were bombarded and a company of Germans killed in fighting around Lisichansk, where the Germans have attempted to pierce Soviet positions on the Donets river.

ROUND UP ZOOT-SUITERS AFTER ATTACK. James R. Phelps (second from right), seaman second class, U. S. Coast Guard, whose companion was slashed by four zoot-suited youths in a daylight attack, viewed these five youths, among 10 held for questioning, while trying to identify his companion's assailants. Police did not reveal the names of those held. At left is Sgt. E. A. Duarte.

Preliminaries To Invasion Appear To Be Under Way

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Whether the volcanic island fortress of Pantelleria has been occupied by allied forces, as is rather vaguely reported in some quarters in London, the fact remains that the preliminaries to invasion not only of this small isle but of Europe as a whole already are under way.

Just as in the case of an offensive by an army on land, intensive bombardment of enemy positions precedes the zero hour when the men swarm "over the top." The more thorough the advance preparation, the easier and less costly the final assault.

So we are in process of ironing out the axis, and in this sense the invasion of the continent actually is under way.

However, I think we shall do well if we don't let our blood pressures run too high in anticipation of quick results in the larger fields.

Attack Will Be Costly

It should be remembered that the liabilities are likely to be much greater in amphibious offensives than in attacks carried out entirely on land. Landing operations may entail a terrible loss of life, ships and materiel unless most careful preparations are made. That fact undoubtedly will be a great factor in guiding the plans of the allied high command.

Of course, the possibility of a considerable lapse of time before major invasions occur doesn't necessarily mean that we shall not see some fairly quick action. It's possible that Pantelleria and Lampedusa and even the bigger Italian islands of Sicily and Sardinia might come under assault by landing forces at any time. Still, it seems fairly obvious that the allied command is proceeding methodically and doesn't intend to be rushed.

British Prime Minister Winston Churchill says "it is evident that amphibious operations of a peculiar complexity and hazard on a large scale are approaching." That's good news, and not unexpected, but you will note that he doesn't say when the zero hour will be. That storm may be a tiny cloud-dot on the horizon as yet.

Probably the prime minister doesn't know when the major action will take place. It must depend on developments. It might come quickly and it might drag on for months.

Russian Front Holds Key

Just to illustrate what I mean, probably a great deal will depend on what happens along the Russian front. If Hitler should launch a great offensive suddenly, that might easily send the allied invasion machine into high gear. We then should have the all highest between two fires. In other words, while the allied strategy is directed along very certain lines, the hour to hour tactics of the fighting front must be controlled by circumstances.

So far as concerns Pantelleria, that small but powerful Italian fortress stands right in the middle of the narrow channel between Sicily and the African mainland. It must be knocked out before allied shipping can operate freely in those waters for the larger operations. Lampedusa, which lies not far from Pantelleria, also is a thorn in the side of water-borne traffic, although in a less degree.

The great islands of Sicily and Sardinia are a particular menace to the narrow ship lane which runs between Sicily and Tunisia. For that reason it is logical to believe that the allies will deal with them before proceeding to bigger problems.

Finally, in considering the question of time required for major amphibious operations, we must not overlook the vastness of the preparations required. It takes a huge fleet to move even a moderate sized army to the scene of action, and keep it supplied with munitions and food. It also demands great aerial and naval support.

West Virginia Operator Willing To Sign

By The Associated Press

CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 10—While one West Virginia coal operator said he would sign a contract with the United Mine Workers on the basis of the reported agreement between the union and Pennsylvania owners, other spokesmen denounced the pact as inflationary.

D. W. Martin, vice president of the Wyatt Coal Co. in the Kanawha field, said he was ready to sign with the UMW on this basis, but another operator in the same field contended the controversy was "not settled by a long shot."

President D. Holmes Morton of Winifrede Collieries said the operators have been ready to accept any settlement approved by the WLB and OPA.

Three Cleveland Papers To Add No More Workers

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, June 10—Cleveland's three major daily newspapers—the News, Plain Dealer and Press—have agreed to cease hiring new employes and gradually extend their present 40-hour work week as their personnel is reduced by draft and other withdrawals, director W. P. Edmunds of the war manpower commission's Cleveland area announced today.

"I suggested that the papers here remove themselves from the labor market until, as a result of people leaving, they could go to the 48-hour week," Edmunds said. "The publishers' attitude toward this was most commendable."

He added that both publishers and employes' representatives expressed a desire to return to the 40-hour week after the war.

COLOR GIRL. Sweetheart of one midshipman and sister of another, Marilyn Sandquist, 18, (above) of Chicago traded the nation's colors for the traditional kiss at historic U. S. She is a student at the University of Illinois.

1,845 JAPS KILLED IN ATTU FIGHTING

Navy Issues Report; 20 Taken Prisoner.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 10—The Navy reported today a new air attack against the enemy air base at Munda on the New Georgia island in the central Solomons of the South Pacific and said also that known enemy losses on Attu island in the Aleutians now stand at 1,845 men killed and 20 taken prisoners.

Navy communique No. 165:

"South Pacific (all dates east longitude)

"1. On June 9th, during the afternoon, Flying Fortress (Boeing B-17) heavy bombers escorted by Warhawk (Curtiss P-40) and Lightning (Lockheed P-38) fighters, bombed Japanese positions at Munda, on New Georgia island in the central Solomons. No United States losses were sustained.

"North Pacific:

"2. On June 9th. During the day, nineteen more of the enemy were killed on Attu. In addition five prisoners were taken."

Prior to today the navy had announced the killing of 1,826 Japanese on Attu and the capture of 15. Only a few stragglers remain on that Aleutian island.

The attack on Munda was one of a series aimed at keeping that field nearest to American positions in the Russell islands and on Guadalcanal out of effective operation.

FOOD SUBSIDY BATTLE SHAPES UP IN SENATE

Price Roll-Back Plan Draws New Objections.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 30—A legislative battle to shut off subsidy payments on most agricultural products shaped up rapidly in congress today as a senate committee endeavored to uncover the extent of the administration's program to roll back food prices.

Summoning office of price administration (OPA) officials for questioning on commodities to be affected, the senate banking committee expected to get its first peek at a food list which some members predicted would be a long one.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio), critic of the subsidy plan to cut retail prices of butter and meats, and coffee and probably fresh vegetables, expressed belief OPA intends eventually to "take in the whole list of commodities—right down the line."

An apparently rising temper in some congressional quarters against the price cutbacks and payment of subsidies to compensate for decreased returns was regarded by opponents as certain to bring efforts to prohibit all such payments without sanction of congress.

The controversy, previously confined to committee rooms, broke out on the senate floor yesterday and brought announcement from Taft that he would offer new legislative restrictions against subsidy payments.

BOMBING

decided to make Pantelleria the subject of an experiment by blasting it into submission from the sky and sea.

The effect would be a formidable boomerang to any hopes that Rome might have of making the island an "Italian Corregidor," emulating Gen. Douglas MacArthur's heroic stand in the Philippines, and would emphasize the fate in store for Italy herself.

On the Russian front, Soviet headquarters reported the Red armies had crushed two more German feeler attacks as the Nazis continued to probe Russian defenses along the 1,500-mile battle line.

The latest German thrusts, foreshadowing the imminence of long-expected summer battles, centered around Lisichansk on the Donets river and in the Smolensk sector.

Hitler's high command again reported Russian sea-borne movements against the east coast of the sea of Azov, north of Kerch strait, and declared German planes destroyed 16 more Soviet landing boats yesterday.

JUDGE'S ALIMONY SUIT HEARD IN TOLEDO COURT

Jurist Files Cross Petition for Divorce.

By The Associated Press

TOLEDO, O., June 10—Mrs. Florence Carland, who professed love for Judge R. Stuart of the Sixth district court of appeals when she testified yesterday in Lucas county court of domestic relations in the alimony suit filed by Mrs. May Stuart and Judge Stuart's cross petition for divorce, resumed the witness stand today.

Mrs. Carland identified a letter, addressed to Mrs. Stuart and dated Sept. 14, 1939, as one she had written. In reading the letter, paragraph by paragraph, Mrs. Carland was asked, "did you love Judge Stuart?"

"I do," she replied.

Asked by counsel for Mrs. Stuart if Judge Stuart had told her he loved her, Mrs. Carland testified she could not recall such a statement, but said perhaps it was her conceit that made her believe he did.

Mrs. Carland said she and Judge Stuart had occupied two Toledo apartments where she had aided in nursing him through serious illness. The witness denied that she and Judge Stuart had lived together as man and wife.

EIGHTH AIR FORCE READY FOR ACTION

U. S. Airmen Will Carry Share of Summer Load.

LONDON, June 10—The current summer will find the eighth United States air force in England carrying its full share of the bomber offensive against Germany with multiple daylight raids, Major-Gen. Ira C. Eaker, its commander, disclosed today.

Eaker told a press conference the American heavy bomber force had doubled in size since March and would approximate the RAF's bomber strength by the end of the summer.

He said the American Flying Fortresses and Liberators would continue their precision raiding in daylight with relatively small individual forces rather than adopting the British mass raiding technique by night or day.

Eaker's disclosure followed a statement from a reliable source here that a unit of Flying Fortresses had been assigned to undertake night bombing experiments from Britain with the RAF.

Meanwhile, Eaker said, American fighter and medium bomber forces in England also are growing rapidly and will be ready to play a full part in supporting allied troops in an invasion of Europe.

American bomber losses for May were under four per cent, Eaker said. During the month more than 1,600 heavy bombers raided the continent, including those that went twice or more, and dropped 2,800 tons of bombs on 19 targets. Sixty-two of the big planes were lost, but they shot down 359 enemy craft and probably destroyed 92 more.

Gas Cut Rumor Starts Run on Filling Stations

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., June 10 — A rumor that the value of "A" gasoline ration coupons would be cut to one-and-a-half gallons at midnight caused Cleveland motorists to flock to service stations last night.

No cut occurred but cars were lined up before many pumps. Several establishments remained open after the usual closing hour and many operators reopened their stations.

Salting Saves Vegetables

By ELEANOR ROSS

Have you ever tried salting away vegetables? This method of preserving vegetables by salting has been practiced since ... Our ancestors saved their surplus crop by salting. Salt has been known ... preservative for thousands of years.

Its preservative action is due to its restraining influence on the growth of the micro-organisms that cause spoilage. The first step in salting away vegetables is their selection. Care should be exercised that only good fresh produce in prime condition is used. Try to get the same maturity throughout the batch to be salted, but avoid overripe vegetables. Use only the very best salt.

Begin by putting up a batch of string beans by dry salting, or maybe some spinach, chard or corn. Clean earthenware crocks of 2 to 6 gallon capacity are best. Also needed are boards or plates that fit loosely inside the containers. A jar of water or a clean, flat stone, not limestone, is used as a weight. Scales are used to weigh vegetables and salt.

Salting String Beans

For string beans salted in the old time fashion, use 15 pounds young, tender and quite fresh beans. String and wash thoroughly, remove tips and cut beans into long, thin slivers. Line a clean 2-gallon stone jar with a muslin bag and sprinkle a layer of salt ¼ inch thick across the bottom. Add a layer of beans and with a potato masher press them down very firmly; cover with a layer of salt and press down again, being very careful to press down firmly around the edges. Continue until all beans and salt have been used, alternating a 2-inch layer of beans with a layer of salt just thick enough to cover, pressing down each layer of beans and salt firmly, and making the last layer of salt, using 4 pounds of salt in all. Fold top of bags over beans or tie shut. Place a plate on top and weigh down with clean heavy stone. Or use a quart jar filled with water or sand and closely sealed. If brine does not form within 24 hours, add a strong brine using a pound of salt to 2 quarts of water till it just covers the beans.

Experiment With Cooking

You will need to experiment with your own batch of vegetables to determine the length of time required for freshening and how long to cook them. If they have been salted only a short time, rinsing them in cold water may be all the freshening required. But when they have been salted for several months they will need to be soaked in cold water for an hour or so before cooking, changing the water several times. The length of cooking time will be determined somewhat by the kind and quality of the produce and by how long it has been salted. Cook and season as for fresh vegetables, except that salt is omitted.

You'll find this method efficient and sure to bring profitable returns on effort invested. The beans will keep indefinitely and be a welcome addition to the table long after they've been salted away.

SWIMMING SCHOOL IS UNDER WAY AT Y

Daily Schedule of Classes Announced.

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
Associated Press Food Editor

Meat-extenders can be exceptionally good to eat as well as easy on ration points and the food budget.

With the advent of warmer weather, housewives will have to make meat-stretching dishes extra flavorful and appealing in appearance in order to keep the family satisfied.

Savory meat pies usually are great favorites with men and youngsters. A meat pie or meat loaf one day and fish the next is a good way to balance the menu. Then remember that hard-cooked eggs combine well with cream sauce or creamed vegetables. Eggs also are good scrambled with buttered asparagus.

Meat Pie with Carrot Top is something new and seasonable. Make up a regular brown stew, using an economy cut of beef, veal or lamb. Put in some cooked green beans, celery and onion. About 2-3 pound of meat will make enough for 4, when it is combined with sauce and vegetables. Brown the raw meat in fat, add flour to cover and cook it slowly until well browned before adding the liquid. When the stew is thick and creamy season with salt, pepper and some herbs (marjoram and a small amount of thyme). Pour into a shallow, greased baking dish. Cover the meat blend with a topping made like this: Mix 2 cups rich biscuit dough and stir in ½ cup diced cooked carrots and 2 teaspoons finely chopped parsley. Arrange over the meat and bake 25 minutes in moderate oven.

Egg whites give a delicate daintiness to Fish Mold. Mix together 1½ cups cooked fish (leftover from baked or pan broiled is excellent), 1 cup soft bread cubes, 2 tablespoons each chopped celery, green peppers and parsley, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon poultry seasoning, 1/3 teaspoon paprika, ½ cup chopped green or ripe olives, 2 egg yolks and ½ cup hot milk. Let stand 5 minutes, stirring twice. Lightly fold in 2 beaten egg whites and 2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine. Pour into well greased pan and bake 30 minutes in moderate oven. Unmold carefully and cover and surround with egg, tomato or herb sauce. If there is any leftover, save it and put into an omelet or scrambled eggs for luncheon or supper the following day.

Lamb Patty Grill uses a low-ration-point meat with flavor appeal. Mix together 1 pound ground lamb, 1/3 cup rolled dried bread crumbs, 1 tablespoon each finely minced celery and parsley, ½ teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon each of pepper and poultry seasoning. Shape into small cakes about ½ inch thick. Set on greased shallow pan, add 4 halves boiled peeled sweet potatoes, 8 cooked dried apricots and 4 slices of fresh tomatoes. Brush the tops with melted bacon fat. Broil 10 minutes on each side or until browned. Transfer to a heated platter and serve promptly.

The honor roll is in front of the courthouse. Beside it is a flag pole for both the stars and stripes and the county's war bond pennant.

Beef Tongue Is A Point Saver

By BETSY NEWMAN

WITH the picnic season here and cold meat plates favored over hot meats when the thermometer soars, a tongue is a good bet, especially as it doesn't take so many of our precious points.

MENU

Beef Tongue, Spinach, Boiled Potatoes, Tossed Green Salad, Strawberry Cream Pie, Coffee.

Beef Tongue

Cover fresh tongue with cold water, add 1½ teaspoons salt to each quart water and bring to boil. Simmer slowly until tender, allowing 2½ to 3½ hours. Leave tongue in liquid until cool enough to handle, then remove outer skin. Serve hot slices with hot piquant sauce or cooked spinach or other greens dressed with French dressing. If you select smoked tongue or pickled, cover with cold water, bring to boil, reduce heat and simmer 2½ to 3 hours, or until tender. Leave in liquid until cool enough to handle, then remove outer skin and serve sliced.

Strawberry Cream Pie

One qt. box strawberries, ½ c. granulated sugar, 1 c. cold water, 3 tbsps. cornstarch dissolved in 1-3 c. cold water.

Select 1 cup of the poorer berries, remove stems and wash thoroughly, then place in saucepan with sugar and 1 cup water and allow to boil for 15 or 20 minutes (a slow boil). Strain through sieve, crushing berries with spoon. When all juice has been squeezed from berries throw away pulp and return liquid juice to pot; add 3 tablespoons cornstarch which have dissolved in 1-3 cup cold water, stir constantly until mixture comes to boil, then simmer very slowly until you have a thick, heavy syrup. Prepare balance of berries. When berries are clean and prepared, cut into halves or quarters, according to size of berries, then pour boiling syrup over them and set aside to chill. Bake pastry shell. Whip 1 cup chilled evaporated milk and fill pastry shell with whipped milk, spreading it level. Put strawberries and syrup on top and serve.

Little Grand Circuit Race Meeting Starts Tonight

Local Program Opens Ohio Harness Season.

By LOREN W. TIBBALS
Marion Star Sports Editor

TONIGHT'S getaway program in the 15-night Little Grand Circuit harness racing meet at the Marion county fairground track now looms, at this eleventh-hour writing, as a double-barreled double-feature.

In the first place tonight's session scheduled for 8:15 is the start of a 15-night stand which, without question, is the greatest harness program in the history of Marion county. Secondly, the opener in fine meeting also opens Ohio's addition to being the lidlifter of a biggest trotting and pacing season.

Fine Opening Program

This alone is a great attraction to hundreds of dyed-in-the-wool railbirds of the Marion area, but the first night crowd is due for a real surprise if a scan of tonight's entries can be taken as any kind of an indicator. Different from previous opening programs staged at the Marion track, an interesting race card has been whipped up and as a result some excellent contests are in the offing.

The super meeting characterized throughout with programs of this type.

Half of the 200 plus head of horses on the grounds worked out on the track yesterday morning and afternoon and the driving colony puts its stamp of approval on the half-mile layout. Many of the horses in tonight's races and others later this week were on the track this morning. In spite of the fact that the meeting is at hand, training activities will continue but at a slightly reduced schedule. Ninety per cent of the vast group of drivers and trainers expect to maintain this schedule throughout the Marion meet.

Feature Race

From a racing standpoint alone the 15 class trot is the feature event on tonight's 10-dash schedule. Veteran fairground observers are figuring Indiana Pete, a five-year-old owned by Nelson Lindblad of Denver, to cop this classic. Steve Benefield, ace western pilot, will handle his speery bay gelding which owns a record of 2:07.

A second choice by a number of horsemen is Cheerful Hanover, a bay foal with a mark of 2:09. Jack Brown, the colorful Allentown, Pa., and Harrington, Del., jock, will be in the sulky behind Cheerful Hanover.

Picked as a third choice in many books is Dix Spencer, a 2:08¼ pacer owned by Fay Phillips of Red Key, Ind. An assistant driver to the popular Benny Sturgeon of Bellefontaine will drive this Indiana-owned bay mare, winner of $1,943.

Supplementary attraction is the 18 class trot which brings together seven starters. A strong favorite in this three-heat event is Bella Mack, with a record of 2:07. Harry Fitzpatrick, sage of Charleston, Ill., will be in the sulky. Last year this same horse won in five out of eight starts. Archie Hanover from the stable of Harry Short of Washington, C. H. was originally considered a strong contender but was withdrawn.

Mutuels To Operate

Because of an unusually large entry for the 25 class pace, track officials decided to split the event up into two divisions, both to be two-heat events with identical purses of $200. In the first half are nine entries and in the second 10. Becantrot, owned by William H. Hecht of Celina, is favored in the first division. As a trotter this bay horse owned a record of 2:09 and now as a pacer he has a mark of 2:12. Another strong favorite is Speed Hanover from Jack Brown's Harrington, Del., stable.

Athlone Hall, a bay gelding trained by Carl Hatchell and owned by Cleo A. Young of Timmonsville, S. C., is the favorite in the second division. Wye Boy is considered a possible threat.

State-supervised pari-mutuel betting will be under the direction of George Reverman of Columbus, mutuel operator at virtually all Ohio tracks for both the harness clique and the runners.

In Spotlight As Marion's 15-Night Harness Racing Meet Opens

STEVE PHILLIPS

WAYNE SMART

ERNIE SMITH

HARRY SHORT

EARL ROUSH

HARRY CRAIG

HARRY GOODHART

CHARLES LACEY

BOB PLAXICO

DOC McMILLEN

These well-known harness horse figures, among the nation's best in their individual phase of the sport, take the spotlight as Marion's 15-night Little Grand Circuit harness racing meet opens tonight at 8:15 at the half-mile county fairground track.

But these men represent only a fraction of the outstanding men who'll be in action here before the meet ends June 26. Dr. H. M. Parshall of Urbana, who led the Grand Circuit for 13 seasons, Vic Fleming of Goshen, N. Y., Harry Fitzpatrick of Charleston, Ill., Carl Hatchell of Timmonsville, S. C., and Jack Brown of Allentown, Pa., are expected to play a great part in the success of the meeting, biggest in Marion history.

Of the above mentioned jockeys contingent Hatchell, Brown and Fitzpatrick are certain starters here. Vic Fleming is still uncertain whether or not he'll be able to whip his large stable into shape in time to take part in the Marion stakes and the Urbana pilot is none too certain if King's Counsel, his 2:01½ pacing star, will be able to campaign here either. Both gentlemen may decide to cancel their Marion engagements and wait until the start of the rich North Randall meeting, a 23-day carnival, starting at the conclusion of the Marion trots.

But their absence definitely will not put a crimp in the Marion program. Enough great horses and competent drivers are on hand at this early date to insure Marion its greatest speed program.

Steve Phillips, the former Xenia, O., bowling alley operator and now owner of a similar establishment at Erie, Pa., has officiated at every Grand Circuit location in the country in his more than 20 years of track experience. By many Phillips is regarded as the greatest starter in the country. His presence here, undoubtedly, adds considerable prestige to the meeting.

Wayne Smart of near Ostrander in Delaware county is perhaps the outstanding driver ever produced in this part of the state. Last year this ruddy-faced speedster was the second among U. S. drivers in the number of race victories. He won 81 races, one less than the leader, Houston Stone. Smart divides his time between a bevy of stalwarts owned by Joe Neville of Delaware and others owned by W. Ellis Gilmore, proprietor of the Saratoga Raceway in New York state.

Smith, Short and Roush are three more outstanding Ohio reinsmen. Smith and Short, both Washington C. H. trainers, have large stables which have had the advantage of excellent weather and are anxiously awaiting Starter Steve, Phillip's "go" signal. Roush, who wintered at the Stark county fairgrounds in Canton, will campaign six head on the l track.

Although this is his first into Ohio for several years, Ha Craig of Cairo, N. Y., is defini not a stranger in Marion. Cr former trainer for Walter S. "L Shot" Cox' Goshen, N. Y., G Time stable, wintered at the fa ground track two years, 1931 a '32. At present he is racing the head owned by J. J. Hoy of Ca kill, N. Y.

Harry L. Goodhart of Read Pa., arrived yesterday with head from his winter quarters Cooksion, Pa. Charlie Lacey, d er for the Hugh Biery stable Butler, Pa., is expected to ar soon with Little Pat, the sele beaten free-for-all pacer, and number of other fine performe Bob Plaxico, another Can reinsman, has 10 members of 28-horse stable here. The reina ing horses will be sent to N Randall soon to prepare for meeting there. Doc McMillen, wily London campaigner, is to arrive soon with a load of rot trotters and pacers. The mos in his stable this year are c sidered among the outstand 1943 Ohio fair circuit prospe

CLEVELAND 3 GAMES FROM LAST PLACE

Top to Bottom in 3 Weeks, Possible for Tribe.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, June 10—The Cleveland Indians, three games removed from last place today, are in a position to descend from the roof to the cellar in less than three weeks.

The tail-end St. Louis Browns shutout the Tribe 6 to 0 in the series opener yesterday and moved within three games of the Redskins. If the Browns can win the remaining four tussles Manager Lou Boudreau's "team to beat" will hit rock bottom.

Jim Bagby made his fourth unsuccessful start and was blasted from the mound in the third inning. He wouldn't have received much help from his males if he had gone the distance because Bob Muncrief delivered a two-hit performance.

The Brownies jumped into the lead in the second frame when George McQuinn lifted a homer over League park's right field screen with two on.

Bagby walked Don Gutteridge to start the third. Gutteridge was forced at second but Chet Laabs dropped a hit-and-run single into right field. Vern Stephens followed with another single to produce the Browns' fourth run. Bagby made his exit after hitting Mike Chartak to load the sacks but Vern Kennedy donated another marker by issuing a pass to McQuinn. Harland Clift's fly tallied Stephens with the final run of the game.

Kennedy allowed St. Louis two hits in six and two-thirds innings but the Indians could manufacture only two singles in the entire contest. Jeff Heath collected a one-baser in the fourth. Roy Cullenbine followed suit in the seventh and that was all.

Babe Ruth played in 10 world series.

Cards Have Edge in Games Decided by Single Run

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The club that wins the one-run games wins the pennant in the National league according to the old sages of the senior circuit.

This diverting aspect of victory came in for consilerable attention last year as the St. Louis Cardinals started streaking down the home stretch. From early August till the end of the season the Red Birds played 15 games which were decided by one run and they won 14 of them.

Discounting a pair of tie games, the Cardinals have had 24 of their 41 contests this season settled by one run and they have triumphed in 14 of the 24.

In comparison the Brooklyn Dodgers have played 18 games decided by one run and have lost 11 of them. Cincinnati has won eight out of 15 in the same category.

The Cardinals had another one of these close contests yesterday, the day's only fracas in the National league, and they captured it 4-3 over the Pittsburg Pirates.

Mort Cooper and Rip Sewell, two of the league's leading pitchers, were paired on the mound and came up to the ninth inning with the score tied 3-3.

Whitey Kurowski, playing for the first time since he hurt an eye May 28, stretched a hard drive into a double to open the inning. Martin Marion was given an intentional walk. Cooper sacrificed, Lou Klein lifted a fly to left field and Kurowski raced home after the catch. Total for the inning—one hit, one run.

In the American league the first place New York Yankees also were idle, but the Washington senators lost ground by dropping a 3-2 decision to the Boston Red Sox.

Jim Tabor and Tony Lupien hit home runs in the first inning to send Tex Hughson off in front and he continued to victory although giving eight hits to the six his teammates made off Dutch Leonard and Alex Carrasquel.

The Detroit Tigers slipped out of third place by losing a 3-1 verdict to the Chicago White Sox in spite of seven-hit pitching by Hal Newhouser. Detroit made four errors, three of them by Rudy York.

The Cleveland Indians ran into the day's worst ambush, however. On returning to their own park for the first time in two weeks they were beaten 6-0 by the last place St. Louis Browns and stumbled in to seventh place in the standings.

Howard Baughman Named Lima Coach

By The Associated Press

LIMA, O., June 10 — Howard Baughman, 30, football coach at Painesville High school, yesterday was named coach at Lima South succeeding Marty Varner who resigned. Baughman formerly coached at Bremen, O.

Reg Settlemire, Lima Central basketball coach, was named football coach also to fill in for Bob Shertzer, granted a military leave of absence.

Alabama, victor in the Orange Bowl, expects to be in a like position by mid-summer.

Tennessee, whose tough Volunteers went to the Sugar bowl, is asking soberly if there'll be enough boys next fall to field a team.

Dr. H. L. Donovan, football-conscious president of Kentucky, said: "I think the outlook for football for the coming season is about as optimistic as Mussolini's outlook for winning the fall campaign in Italy.

"I do not believe the Army cadets will be made available, and if they were made available, their schedule of study would have to be altered very greatly to use them as football players."

As for freshmen expected at Kentucky, Dr. Donovan commented: "The Lord only knows," adding, "I don't think it would be advisable to continue football using only freshmen under 18 years of age."

Some Optimism

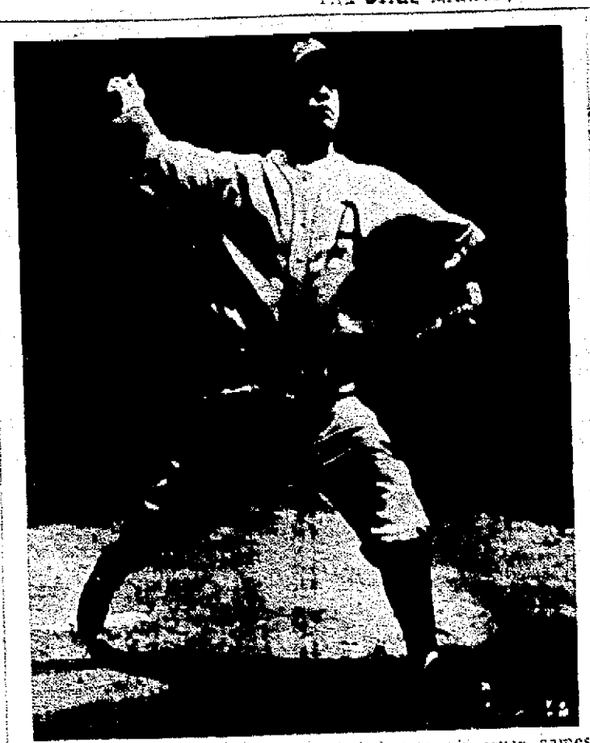
Two notes of confidence were struck by Dr. M. L. Brittain, septuagenarian president of Georgia Tech, and Tulane's president, Rufus, C. Harris, head of the southeastern conference.

"We shall be able to play football," said Dr. Brittain. "We expect 300 freshmen to matriculate next term. If Army cadets are not available, I think it advisable to continue football, using freshmen under 18 years of age and others who might be permitted to participate. 'In my opinion the general outlook is good."

Dr. Brittain's optimism may be influenced by the fact that Navy cadets at Tech already have permission to play football. Tech and Tulane are the only schools in the conference so fortunate in manpower.

"We expect to play amateur football," Harris said. "If ever there was validity to the assertion that the game builds men physically, it should be proved now. Some of the cry-baby coaches who care primarily for their records as winners are chiefly the ones who want to quit in this period. Those who are interested in the good the game does for boys feel differently.

"It seems probable to me that Army cadets will be permitted to play if they want to do so, on the same restrictions that the Navy imposes. In my opinion the general outlook is all right. I like it. It will compel a return to football sanity. Maybe that is too much to hope for, but I will hope for it anyway."



STAR ROOKIE. First major league pitcher to win seven games this year is righthander Jess Flores (above), Philadelphia Athletics rookie, who is a native of Mexico.

REDS IN 3RD PLACE BY SLIGHT MARGIN

Cards Beat Pirates To Advance Cincinnati.

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, June 10—The Cincinnati Reds were deadheaded into undisputed possession of third place in the National league standings yesterday by virtue of the St. Louis Cardinals victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4 to 3.

Their position is none too secure, however, as a glance at the standings today indicates they are hanging on to the third rung by a single percentage point.

All of this happened while the Reds were playing the second of three exhibition games with teams of the armed forces. Yesterday the Cincinnati boys humbled the soldiers at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., 8 to 0.

A twilight contest with the Great Lakes Naval Station nine, led by Big Johnny Mize, former league home run king, is on the menu for this evening.

Manager Bill McKechnie has been looking over some of his new material on the Reds' exhibition jaunt and has been particularly impressed by the hitting and fielding of outfielder Dain Clay, obtained last Sunday in a deal with the Philadelphia Phils.

The Reds move into Chicago Friday for the first of a four-game series with the Cubs.

THIS IS A WARNING

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., June 10—Tom Anderson, sports columnist and baseball writer for the Knoxville Journal, called in his wife to cover a Southern association baseball game for the newspaper. Forthwith came an appreciative note from a subscriber. News Editor Steve Humphries said Mrs. Anderson would cover the remainder of the Knoxville club's home games. Anderson will stick to his column.

DUROCHER TO PLAY

BROOKLYN, June 10—Manager Leo Durocher of the Brooklyn Dodgers has been taking a lot of ribbing about his inactivity as an active player, but he intends to hush his critics today by starting as shortstop against the Boston Braves. It will be the first appearance of the season as a player for the 38-year-old pilot.

Indians Stay in First But Margin Decreases

By The Associated Press

Indianapolis' hold on first place in the American association was reduced to two games last night as the league leaders resumed their losing ways and the challenging Milwaukee Brewers got back into winning stride.

Milwaukee won its sixth game in seven starts by rolling over the skidding Columbus Redbirds, 5 to 2.

Indianapolis, after breaking a three game losing streak Tuesday, met a reserve yesterday at the hands of the aspiring St. Paul Saints, 4 to 3. It was St. Paul's ninth triumph in 13 games.

Kansas City and Louisville, who batted for 15 innings Tuesday before the Blues won, took on different foes, but still found themselves going extra innings. Kansas City once more emerged a winner, defeating Toledo, 2 to 1 in the 10th.

At Minneapolis, the hapless Louisville Colonels bowed, 4 to 3 in 10 innings, although they outhit the Millers 14-9.

They Bet on Youth In Lamotta-Zivic Battle

PITTSBURGH, June 10 — They're betting 7 to 5 that "youth will be served" tonight when 21-year-old Jake LaMotta, the "Bronx one-man riot," meets 30-year-old Fritzie Zivic in a 10-round go at Forbes field.

The odds had been 11 to 5 but that was before word got around that Jake would weigh in at 157 or maybe 156 instead of his former 160. Zivic expects to tip the scales at 151.

Some of the odds-makers remembered that Fritzie hasn't lost a bout in his home town in four years.

Both fighters have stated they expect to win by a knockout. Jake has three to his credit in eight fights this year, Fritzie one in his four fights.

DEMAND HELPS STEADY STOCKS

Investment Interest Acts To Stengthen List; Leaders Advance.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 10—A moderate revival of investment demand stiffened the stock market's structure today and selected industrials advanced fractions to a point with a few wider swings in evidence.

The feeling persisted that the recent decline on light offerings may have constituted a partial correction of the lengthy drive.

Among shares at new tops for the year or longer were A. O. Smith, Chrysler, Texas Co., International Harvester, Deere and Oliver Farm. In front most of the time were J. I. Case, U. S. Steel, Western Union, Loew's, U. S. Rubber, Westinghouse, DuPont, Sears Roebuck and United Aircraft.

On the side of farm implements were the war production board plans for a substantial boost in agricultural machinery production. An aggregate of 300,000 tons of steel and other materials in proportion would be allotted manufacturers in this line for the third quarter. Advance allocations of 200,000 tons of steel were scheduled for each of the quarters beginning Oct. 1 to July 1, 1944.

THESE GIRLS OBJECT TO WEARING SLACKS Even as more and more girls don slacks instead of skirts, these office workers at a Ford Motor Co. plant in Detroit entered a heated objection to an order that they wear slacks. In fact the girls were so opposed to the idea that they sat at their typewriters and refused to work. They are shown above outside the plant gates, with just one of them wearing the slacks. The company said it banned skirts because they are more dangerous around machinery in the plant, where the girls sometimes must go in the course of their regular work.

WHEAT PRICES DOWN AS SELLING GAINS

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 10—Wheat declined today on selling inspired by a slightly lower loan rate on the 1943 crop than the more optimistic traders had expected. At one time the bread cereal was down about a cent but good support developed at that point and prices staged a mild rally.

Rye followed wheat, but oats displayed independent strength to move to new seasonal highs. The July contract was at a peak since 1928. Good cash demand and belief Canadian imports will slump brought in the buying. Realizing sales held the market in check after advances of major fractions.

COYOTES GET BOLDER

OREGON CITY, Ore. — The war is making the coyotes too frisky. Clackamas county farmers report the predators have grown much bolder since the young men who formerly hunted them have gone to war and into war industries. So the county court appropriated $240 to pay a government trapper to go after 'em.

Picture History of War Is Kept by Baltimore Man

By The Associated Press

BALTIMORE — The one really unique wartime publishing venture springs from the brain of J. A. Hopkins here in Baltimore. It is a kind of glorified scrapbook, giving photographically the story of the war in clippings from selected newspapers.

Mr. Hopkins is not only the compiler of the history—which is titled "Diary of World Events"—he is the publisher as well, and his clients include some of the most important libraries and colleges of the country, not to mention newspapers and individuals.

The system sound simple, as Mr. Hopkins describes it.

He does a full day's work in the teeming Candler building, which is the home of the social security board, a vast warren of files, filing clerks, filing devices and hurrying executives—one of which is Mr. Hopkins.

Part Time Historian

Then he goes to his home on Calvert street and begins his second day's work, which is to go carefully through three newspapers for stories on the war. He uses the Baltimore Sun, the New York Times, the New York Herald Tribune. Occasionally he supplements these with others from Washington, Newark, Madison, Wis., or what have you.

"There isn't much use," he explains in his strong, practiced voice, "to go through hundreds of papers, because they all get their war news from the same services."

He confines his clippings to fact—no prophecy, no unfounded rumor. He sprinkles in some anecdotes, pictures, and occasional cartoons. The items he pastes on sheets, 3-column size, ready for the photographer. Once a week he indexes the product; approximately once a year he publishes a set of 10 volumes. They are not, of course, set up and printed; they are reproduced by photography, headlines and all.

Began As Hobby

Besides having the item exactly as it appeared, the photographic process has another advantage: it's cheaper, and the history is already 28 volumes long with the possibility of years more to come. It began with the Munich broadcast — "Peace in our time"—of September, 1938, and Mr. Hopkins plans to continue it at least through the peace treaty.

"I started it," he explains, his sharp eyes darting about the battered but orderly desk, "as a private project. I wanted to know exactly what happened on a given day for my own satisfaction.

"Then it occurred to me that the idea would be useful to the public, and I offered it to some publishers. They were interested, but they wouldn't undertake it—they had no precedent for the sort of book it would make, and their sales organizations are not

Battle-Scarred Plane Still Fighting Japs

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA — The Falcon," outstanding airplane in a B-24 unit is the pride and joy of Master Sergeant Joseph Sugarek of Beeville, Tex.

Piloted by First Lieut. Henry Chovanec of Spokane, Wash, The Falcon has sunk or badly damaged six Japanese warships, and has destroyed four Zeros. Since December, the plane has logged more than 250 hours combat mission time.

As it gets older, the aircraft becomes more and more a problem for Sugarek, who is crew chief. Its excellent mechanical condition is largely due to the tireless efforts of Sugarek.

"I did, and that was the answer. That's really all there is to it—except the labor, of course."

Axis Forces Use Tanks Against Slav Guerrillas

By The Associated Press

LONDON, June 10—Axis forces supported by 35 tanks and a strong air cover have forced their way into the Montenegrin town of Sadnik in the face of fierce resistance given Draja Mihailovic's guerrilla forces, the Yugoslav government-in-exile announced today.

Heavy fighting was reported continuing after the guerrilla forces retired to the surrounding mountains.

In another clash, the Yugoslavs were said to have surrounded and virtually wiped out a German battalion in two days of fighting ending June 1 in the Serbian mountain region of Gucevo, near the Drina river.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

THERE WAS no use keeping the truth from Olina and her parents any longer and while Philip Veritzen still held in his fingers the forged note purporting to come from Georges which Olina had received and brought to me, I poured forth—my story of what my father wished the exiled young princess to do on the morrow.

Olga's face whitened as I talked, and Philip Veritzen's heavy eyebrows contracted in a frown. But Olina's eyes sparkled in excitement as I told how my father wished her to go to the bank, withdraw the money, and take it to the hotel corridor where she would deliver it to the unknown woman as instructed. Then I told them of my question to my father concerning danger to Olina, and just what he had said in answer.

"He wishes all three of you to know of this possibility—but not probability—of danger before you decide what shall be done."

"I should think so," Philip Veritzen broke out resentfully, but I saw Olga's hand lift in a tender, protesting gesture, and he fell silent.

Olina Makes a Decision

"Olina must make her own decision," her mother said. "I no longer can say what she must or must not do."

I saw a startled gleam of joy—and of pride—in Olina's eyes, and knew that for the first time, Olga had recognized her daughter as an equal, as another woman, instead of a child who must be controlled. I knew, of course, that there would be little backslidings—no mother ever can always remember to keep aloof from the affairs of her child—but the decisive break had been made, and I knew that both mother and daughter eventually would be happier for the change.

"But you will approve, Maman," Olina said appealingly, "and you too, Papa Veritzen, I am sure, when I tell you that I must go. You see in this particular instance, I am the one on whom your father must depend to trap these people—isn't that so, Auntie Madge?"

"That is correct," I told her gravely, knowing how her high spirit was thrilling to this adventure, so foreign to the sheltered orbit in which her life had revolved.

"And you are going to be there, too," Olina went on, "and will face whatever peril I do. I would be ashamed to stay behind. Can't you see that, Maman and Papa Veritzen?"

"Yes, I see that you must go," Olga said, and then she looked at her husband compellingly.

"Yes, yes, she must go, of course," he said, and I rose abruptly, and hurried to the door.

"I shall take that message back to my father at once," I said. "But, please remember, all of you, that my father considers the danger negligible, instead of certain."

"I shall be very glad to remember that," Olga said fervently, but Olina's starry eyes told me that she welcomed whatever danger was in the offing.

Philip Veritzen was at the door as soon as I.

Veritzen Joins Madge

"If you don't mind," he said, "I'll just walk over and see your father a minute. If you will please excuse me, Dearest." He turned to his wife, and included Olina in his formal little bow.

"Of course," Olga said, smiling at him, and Olina echoed her mother's words.

Once the door had closed, Philip Veritzen slipped his hand beneath my elbow, and impelled me rapidly along the corridor to the elevator.

"Of course there's more to this than you have told my wife and daughter, but equally of course we can't talk in this public corridor."

I pulled him to a standstill by exerting all my strength.

"One thing I must tell you," I said in muted tones. "Noel is in my apartment, helping my father simply by being there. But he knows nothing of this letter to Olina, or our discovery concerning it, and it is highly undesirable that he learn anything concerning it. So please be careful what you say until you see my father alone, or at least, without Noel present."

Noel's father looked at me with eyes which showed the knowledge I had seen in them a few minutes before.

"Your words have only confirmed my conjecture," he said. "I know who is responsible for this."

Hearing

IN PREVIOUS articles this week we have been discussing the methods of diagnosis in which the physician depends upon his own senses to gather information — seeing, feeling and hearing. The first two we have covered; today we take up hearing.

When the physician places the middle finger of one hand on your chest or abdomen and taps it with the middle finger of the other hand and when afterwards he takes out his stethoscope and puts the ear pieces in his ears like an old-fashioned phonograph and the bell of the stethoscope on the heart or lung, he is observing a long historical tradition in medicine.

The first act, called percussion, was introduced in the middle of the eighteenth century (1761) by an Austrian physician Leopold Auenbrugger. When Auenbrugger was appointed to the medical staff of the Vienna hospital, he found that the saying, which was popular in his day: "How difficult it is to learn about diseases of the chest" was all too true.

He had a patient who died and at the autopsy they found that the chest was half full of fluid, which he had never suspected during life. And then he remembered his boyhood when his father, who was the host of an inn on the Italian border, would determine how much wine there was in a wine cask by slapping the sides of the cask from above downward. He obtained a hollow note where the cask was empty and a dull note where the wine began. Now the wine cask was something like the chest: it had stiff walls and they were opaque. The condition of the wine cask, half full of wine, was like the condition of Auenbrugger's patient, whose chest was half full of fluid.

He tried on other patients to find out whether he could determine the presence of fluid by tapping the chest with his fingers and found that he could. Of course, we have extended Auenbrugger's method of percussion greatly; not only can we determine the presence of fluid in the chest, but different amounts of infiltration of solidity into the normally aerated part of the lung, as in pneumonia and tuberculosis.

The method of percussion was not much taken up for about 50 years until Napoleon's brilliant physician, Corvissart, came across one of Auenbrugger's little books and reintroduced the method into practice. This was very exciting in the brilliant intellectual atmosphere of France early in the nineteenth century and a young Breton, Dr. Laennec, who had a large service of patients at the Necker hospital in Paris, was thinking about some of the ways by which he could make an exact diagnosis of chest diseases through the sense of hearing.

One day he saw some children playing on a see-saw. One would put his ear to one end of the see-saw and another would scratch a message with a pin on the other end. Laennec conceived the idea that if he had a hollow tube and placed one end in his ear and the other on the patient's chest, the could hear many sounds, and so the stethoscope was born. It is one of the three most valuable instruments which the physician uses even today: the other two being the thermometer and the watch. With the stethoscope we can hear the sounds of the heart and of the lungs and determine whether they are normal, and if abnormal, in what way.
